CUBANS BLOW UP A BRIDGE AND AQUEDUCT.

The Evident Intention Was to Cut Off the Water Supply of Havana. Great Excitement in the Cubun Capital.

This city was star-tled and alarmed last night at 9 o'clock tied and alarmed last hight at 5 closes by the noise of two successive explosions which shook the ground for a long distance and were heard for several miles. Consternation prevailed for a time and it was feared this was a pretime and it was feared this was a prelude to an attack or a series of similar explosions. Excited throngs rushed to the streets, while an armed party proceeded in the direction from which the detonations had been heard. It was of Fernando Septimo were the points that had suffered from the dynamite.

The bridges were partially destroyed and the pipes on the aqueduct upon which the city is dependent for its water supply, were much damaged. It

It is hoped by the Monarchists that the daughter of Dom Pedro II, Isabel, Countess of d'Eau, will ascend the throne as Empress Isabel I. There is no doubt but that the dynamite which caused the wreck was placed by agents of the insurgents. It has been their determination, announced some time since, to cut off the water supply of Havana and so serve to make this city as nearly uninhabitable as possible.

The greatest apprehension is felt on account of the secrecy and effectiveness with which the insurgents have been able to carry out the outrage. Last night was spent in fear and dread of immediate danger. These fears were largely dispelled by the return of daylight.

It is believed the insurgents are bent upon investing Havana by cutting off as much as possible the supply of necessities, though not by actually believing it. All fruits and vegetables and fresh meats are unprecedently high-priced and difficult to obtain and

It is evident, however, that the insurgents themselves are preparing to

(BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.) ST. LOUIS, June 14.—(Special Dispatch.) The spell in the Empire State s broken. Svengali Platt has lost the potency of his political power. After in all-night contest before the National Committee, ending at 4 o'clock this morning, a decision was reached in the cases of the contested districts, and the anti-Platt delegates were seated in all of them but one, where the contestants abandoned their contest. In another district, where a half vote was given to each side, the anti-Platt victory was only a partial one. The result is a severe blow to Platt, and a dis-tinct weakening of his power. Rumb-lings of discontent over the outcome are not loud but deep. Dark hints of the loss of the State to the Republic ticket are thrown out from the Platt camp, but these dire forebodings are outed by the McKinley wing of the New Yorkers. Cornellus N. Bliss, one lieutenant, Wilbur F. Wakeman of the American Protective Tariff League, laugh the Platt prediction and declare that New York can be carried for McKinley on a protection and sound-money platform by a great majority. So says Chauncey M. Depew, also, Depew is showing much less temper and far more sagacity than Platt in and sagacity to recognize the inevitable, and, while he is here for the special purpose of placing Gov. Morton in nomination before the convention, he is explicit in his announcement that if he can't get his man (and he knows now that he can't,) he will support the nan of the convention's cho other's throats in the way they are the Vice-Presidential nomination gets further and further away from the Empire State, and the probability of it going in that direction is becom-ing remote. Depew's authoritative an nouncement that Morton is out "for sure" has settled that matter, and the selection of any one of Mr. Platt's pet enemies for the place is not considered "good politics" in the present binding situation of affairs. In this dilemma a new man is suggested. This is Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. He is a scholar, a gen-tleman, a Senator, a Reed man, and has not made himself an offensive op-conent of McKinley. INGALL'S MISAPPREHENSION. Ex-Senator Ingalls said yesterday, in discussing the probable course of the convention on the financial question "The political carpenters are at work constructing a platform that shall be like Goldsmith's celebrated piece of fur niture, 'contrived a double debt to pay; a bed by night a chest of drawers by day;' something that will afford ample room and verge enough for the gold men, the sound money men, and the

To note the intense interest that i felt now among the delegates in the financial plank, a careless observe might conclude that this question would be first in the campaign, supplanting or overshadowing the tariff. I think otherwise, however. (BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.) ST. LOUIS (Mo.,) June 14.—(Specia Dispatch.) The Vice-Presidency still continues to be an unsettled matter. The McKinley men are earnestly discussing Hobart of New Jersey, and, as one of the National Committeemen expressed it this afternoon: "It looks as though the great man out in Canton had dropped his left eyelld in that di-The New York situation is a curious

Morton stands. kinds of stories are going around, and no one seems to know just what the relations of Chauncey M. Depew and Tom Platt are. One of the most curious phases of the situation is a whisper which I heard tonight, that the tele gram which Depew received from Gov Morton yesterday, dated Rhinebeck may not be genuine. It is said that the telegram, strangely enough, was written on a "sent" blank, instead of "received" blank, and it is wondered whether it went through the office or whether some of Morton's enemies or friends of the opposing candidates have not manufactured the telegram and sent it to Mr. Depew through a messenger boy. Chauncey M. Depew's high character precludes any supposition that he would be a party to a fraud of this kind. There are all sorts of men here, however, and some of those who wish to see Morton out of the way might do it. Another part of the story is that this natter was brought to the notice of Tom Platt, whereupon he telegraphed o Levi P. Morton, asking him whether he had sent any such telegram, and that ex-Vice-President replied that he had sent no mesage and had had no correspondence with Mr. Depew since he saw him at Rhinebeck. I called at Mr. Depew's rooms this afternoon and asked to be shown the telegram. His secretary looked through the papers, but could not find it, and I was told that Depew probably had it in his pocket. I called later on, and was told that Mr. Depew had gone out for a drive, but that the telegram had been

In order to further trace the story, I called upon Mr. Platt. I found him very busy talking with Henry Cabot Lodge and other important men among the convention leaders. He gave me just a moment, and I asked him whether the story was true. At first he seemed to think that I was trying to get some kind of a statement out of him and told me that the corkscrew busines would not work there. I replied that I had no desire to have him say anything he did not wish to say, but that I had heard the story and I wanted to know whether there was anything in it or

Mr. Platt replied: "I have no time to discuss matters of that kind. It is the silliest of convention gossip." As to this Mr. Platt may be right, but it very interesting gossip and I give it for what it is worth. HENRY CABOT LODGE.

I met Henry Cabot Lodge in Mr. Platt's room. He wore two Massa-chusetts badges and an imitation gold nugget in his buttonhole to show his position on the money question. He tells me that if the convention wishes to make anything more than an outand-out gold platform, the question will have to be settled on the floor of the convention itself. In other words he will fight anything else. I speech.' asked him as to whether Reed would, under any conditions, accept the Vice-Presidency. Mr. Lodge will present Reed's name to the convention, and he will make one of the most ringing speeches of that assembly. He is one of the brainder 50, and he does not look to be more than 40. He is straight, broad-si dered and well-made. He keeps his muscles in good shape by horseback riding. He first attracted the notice of the country at the convention of 1884 at Chicago, the convention that brought out Theodore Roosevelt and a number of other young men. At this time he was the leader of the Mugwumps, and a worshiper at the shrine of George F. Edmunds. Since then Lodge has become a straight-out Republican. He was a strong friend of Blaine, and used to spend weeks with him at Bar Harbor. It is now about three years since he first took his seat in the United States Senate as one of the successors of Charles Sumner, and though one of the new Senators he is by all odds one of the greate and strongest. He is a man of marked literary ability, has written lives of number of American statesmen, including Alexander Hamilton and Danie Webster. He speaks as well as he lassical and eloquent. Mr. Lodge comes of one of the est families in Massachusetts. I think he has a connection with the Cabots, who were among the first discoverers of America. I know that his greatgrandfather, George Cabot, was in the Senate when Washington was President. He was elected in 1791 and served until 1796. Lodge is now in the Senate, exhundred years after his great-statcher left it, the two men's terms beginning and ending a century of Senatorial life. Mr. Lodge is a rich man. He has a large inherited tune, and can hence afford to follow politics as a profession

OHIO'S ELOQUENT FORAKER. Ex-Gov. J. B. Foraker of Ohio will present McKinley's name to the convention. Foraker will be 50 years old shouldered and well-built. He has than when he was Governor of Ohio, but he is still one of the handsomes men in public life. His face is a strong one, his forehead is high, his nose straight and his determined mouth is half-covered with an iron gray mustache. He is a ringing speaker, and in 1884 and in 1888 he made what were considered to be among the finest speeches of the two conven tions. At this time he presented the name of Sherman. Now he is to present the name of McKinley. Foraker is a fighter; he is a man of wonderful personal magnetism and has a strong following in Ohio. His relations with McKinley at times have been rather strained, the two representing opposite factions in the Republican party, and the wisdom of choosing Foraker to present McKinley's name has by certain small men been ques tioned. Such men, however, do not understand Foraker's calibre. He is a big enough man to rise above such petty considerations, and he will do all that he can to present McKinley in the best light. I had a chat with Mr. Foraker in the St. Nicholas Hotel this afternoon and asked him as to how the audience of a national convention differed from an ordinary one. He replied:

"I don't know that there is very much largely made by the occasion and the surroundings, and there is no place more inspiring than that of a national convention. You have fifteen thousand of the best people of the United States before you. They are strung up to the highest pitch of intellectual excitement, and in addition you know that the tens of millions of Republicans and Democrats outside are waiting to hear what you have to say. The telegraph wires in the convention hall carry your speech almost as soon as it is uttered into every home in the United States, and the surroundings are such that they ought to bring out all that there is in a man or a speaker. Speeches, however, depend very much on a man's mood at the time. A very little thing may knock one out. If a man is not thoroughly in sympathy with the occasion; if a cog gets wrong n his machinery, either physically or intellectually, he may be unable to do his best."

"Governor," said I, "it is supposed by some that this is your condition today. You are said to be not in accord with McKinley and not in sympathy with the movement to make him President."

"That is not true," replied ex-Gov. "It is true that we have had factional differences in Ohio. You will find such differences existing in nearly all of the States. They are for the good of the party, but we are all Republicans, and we believe that Maj. Mc-Kinley is the natural and logical candidate for President at this time. Kinley knows that I am of that opinion. As to this speech, I did not ask the honor. I tried, in fact, to get out of being a delegate to this convention, but as I am here I am going to do all I can, and I will present his name just as well as I can. "How do you make a speech of this kind? Have you written out the one you will deliver?".

"Not entirely," replied the ex-Governor. "I think of certain phrases and bombination of words. These, however, have no fixed place in the speech. They may be put in or dropped out, according to the moment. As I said before, the occasion makes the speech."

"But, Governor, it is said you have no fixer in the work."

Lowrey is one of the rich-and most influential men of the orthwest. He owns the combined reet-railway lines of Minneapolis and street-railway lines of Minneapolis and St. Paul and he is interested in railroads, steamboats and all sorts of things. He stands in Minnesota very much as Mark Hanna does in Ohio in that he likes to mix in politics, and spends lots of money on it, but wants nothing out of it. He is a strong McKinley man, and tells me that with McKinley and a gold standard the Northwest can be carried for the Republicans.

As I chatted with him I remembered Tas I chatted with him I remembered the candidacy of Cushman K. Davis. Cush Davis lives in St. Paul. He is still connected with a law firm there, and I have been told that he draws an insome of about $50,000 s year from it, though he is in the United States Senate. Cush Davis has a beautiful wife, and he is very ambitious. The McKinley wave, however, is too strong, for him, and he had to withdraw. I asked Mr. Lowevy this afternoon as to what Mr. Lowrey this afternoon as to what had become of Minnesota's candidate. He repiled that Minnesota had dropped its candidate and that the delegation

The next man I saw was Philetus Sawyer, the famous ex-Senator from Wisconsin. Uncle Philetus is well along in his seventies, but he jumps about as lively as if he were fifty. WHAT THE LONDON MORNING POST SAYS OF IT.

Thinks the Party in Power Should Be Discredited—"Marked Deteri-oration of the Senate" and Speculations Thereon.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) LONDON, June 15 .- (By Atlantic Cable.) The Morning Post, reviewing the session of the United States Congress

just closed, says:
"The announcement of the adjourn nent is the first faint sound of that sus ceptibility to public opinion which it was said in the long run guaranteed the merican Ship of State against disaster. In any other country, as a matter of course after such a session the parts claiming a majority in Congress would be hopelessly discredited. This, how be hopelessly discredited. This, how; ever, does not seem likely in America. No one has a word to say for the conduct of that party. Yet these same representatives will be in the enjoyment of still greater power next year.

"A serious reflection for the admirers of American institutions was the marked deterioration of the Senate. Whether this is due to the admission of many new States or to the fact that corrupt influences gradually environ the men who continue long in public life at Washington, it is the same assembly of veterans who have done most to discredit Congress in recent years. On the wild dance of this session it was the Lodges, the Chandler, the Butlers and the Morgans who led the revolts."

Id Hung Chang was conveyed thither in the royal carriage, escorted by Uhlans. Emperor William and Emby Uhlans. Emperor William and Empress Augusta were seated upon their thrones, surrounded by royal princes. Chancellor von Hohenlohe and Freihers Marshal von Bieberstein, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, were also present. Li Hung Chang bowed low on approaching the throne, and presented his credentials, at the same time delivering an address expressing his admiration of Germany. He dwelt upon the fact that the relations between Germany and China were more friendly than those between other powers. He also thanked the Emperor for Germany's ald regarding the retrocession of China by Japan of the Liso Tung Peninsula. He referred to Germany as the first nation of the world, and hoped for a lasting friendship between Germany and China. Emperor William replied with a cordial welcome and sincerely reciprodated the friendly sentiments with an earnest hope that the friendship between the two nations would develop. He begged Li Hung Chang to thank the Emperor of China for sending him to Germany as an envoy, and to convey his best wishes for the welfare and prosperity of the Chinese empire.

PARIS, June 14.—There was splendld weather for the running of the Grand Prix today. President Faure was loudly cheered upon his arrival at the grounds and his box was thronged with a brilliant company. The Americans present included Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago, the United States Ambassador, Mr. Eustis, ex-Congressman Burke Cockran and Mr. and Mrs. Morse.

M'KINLEY HEADQUARTERS, ST. LOUIS, June 14.—While the headquar-ters of some States have not been crowded, as is usually the case two days before the convention assembles, this has been a big day at the rooms of the Ohio delegation, known as Mc-Kinley headquarters. Some of the Ohio district delegates and Mr. Hanna are on duty there all the time, while Delegates Foraker. Bushnell and Grosveno and some delegates are out visiting other State delegates and leaders.
When Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, the temporary chairman, arrived this morning from Indianapolis, Mr. Hanna and others had a long conference with him over the keynote speech, and la-leaders.

It is understood the keynote speech will be in the line of the Indiana platform, which especially declares opposition to the free and independent coin-form, which especially declares opposition to the free and independent coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

At McKinley headquarters there is still the fullest confidence in the favorite having 633 votes on the first ballot, out of a total of 918, but there is not any fixed slate for the nomination for Vice-President nor any ultimatum on the currency plank. There is no trouble about the platform except on the divergent views of the East for gold and the West for silver, while Michigan, Indiana and even Ohio, with other Middle States, want the eastern idea expressed in the currency plank without the word "gold" in the phraseology of the declaration for a single standard.

As Senator-elect Foraker will be pressed for the chairmanship of the Committee on Resolutions, it is expected that he will make the fight for a declaration "for the maintenance of present standard," which means a single or gold standard without the use of the word "gold" it is claimed that campaign cry of "goldbugs" would be used in a prejudicial manner during the canvass. Not only delegates, but also Republican candidates for Congress and others from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and other Middle States called on Foraker and Hanna today to say that as positive a declaration as possible was wanted with the use of the word "gold" which was offensive to many wanting to support Republican State and district tickets, as well as the national ticket.

Messrs. Foraker, Hanna and other leaders insist if it is the will of the Committee on Resolutions, and later of the convention, to insert the words "gold standard," that McKinley's friends would not oppose. This is the import of the reply made to all who have been solicitous in their inquiries on this all-absorbing topic around McKinley headquarters.

Last week was a "gold" week here, but there is a vigorous effort today to have the present week's agitation result in the gold idea under the names of "honest money" or a "sound currency." While the southern delegates are divided on the technical phraseology of the currency plank, the western delegates are expected to go with the Middle States in the Committee on Resolutions. At McKinley headquarters they expect a minority report from the silver members of the Committee on Resolutions. At McKinley headquarters they expect a minority report from the silver members of the Committee on Resolutions. The managers for this reason are the more solicitous to get as many as possible to sign the majority report, and to have a financial plank on which there can be general concurrence, except with the silver extremists. The McKinley men anticipate no trouble in agreeing on the other resolutions, which will include Forsker's indictment of the Cleveland administration on several counts.

The McKinley managers had calls today from unsuccessful contestants who thought the National Committee had not decided correctly. To Hon. William Hahn, the Ohlo member of the National Committee, and Judge M. C. Thompson, the prospective Ohlo member of the National Committee, and Judge M. C. Thompson, the prospective Ohlo member of the National Committee, and Judge M. C. Thompson, the prospective Ohlo member of the National Committee, and sudge Mc C. A TALK WITH MR. HAHN. ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Hon. William H. Hahn, the Ohio member of the Na-tional Committee, speaking of the con-

H. Hann, the Ohio member of the National Committee, speaking of the contests, says:

"It has been apparent for at least two months that Gov. McKinley would be nominated either by acclamation or on the first ballot. It was not thought, however, that he would have such a large number of uncontested delegates. The roll, as made up by the National Committee, will very largely increase his vote in the convention. These contests are settled without reference as to whom the delegates favored, and the committee, as the records will show, seated the delegates that were elected in regular conventions which were called by their regular party organization in the respective Congress districts. I think every member of the committee will bear me out in this. "In my opinion, if a vote were taken at this time, McKinley would have from 640 to 575 votes. It may exceed the higher figures. It will not fall below the lower. From conversation with delegates from all over the country, I learn that they regard McKinley's nomination as sure and they predict that he will receive the electoral vote in many States heretofore regarded as safely Democratic.

"I believe the Committee on Credentials made up from every State represented, will seat the delegates practically as made up by the National Committee. There may be three or four exceptions. I want to emphasize the fact that the members of the National Committee in these contests vote from unbiased and unprejudiced standpoints. McKinley already had a majority of the votes exclusive of the contests, and even if the committee had been so inclined, there would have been no temptation to vote for McKinley men not legally elected."

Senator Lodge, who is to place Reed in nomination, has become the recognized leader of the Reed forces, and since his arrival, has been trying to galher the scattered Reed forces and retrieve the losses that have occurred in the last few days. MILHOLLAND'S 400. ST. LOUIS, June 14.-John E. Mil holland and 400 McKinley boomers of Thomas C. Platt's State arrived in St. Thomas C. Platt's State arrived in St. Louis tonight, preceded by a band of music and wearing elaborate McKinley badges. They marched up to the same hotel where Platt was stopping, and into the corridor, where they were received with cheers by the McKinley people and hisses and groans by Morton's adherents. When Milholland had quartered his people he said: "The story that we were delayed because we had not paid our car-fare is not true. We are nearly 400 strong and we represent a signed petition, which I bring with us, of over 17,000 voters of New York who believe William McKinley is the true representative of the people."

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Senator Quay's attitude in the convention continues attitude in the convention continues the subject of no small degree of speculation. When asked whether his name would be presented as a Presidential candidate, the Senator replied that the matter had not been definitely determined, but that it would probably depend upon the wishes of the friends of other candidates than McKinley. Quay is in a somewhat embarrassing position. He has for some time realized the certainty, in his opinion, of McKinley's nomination, and has advised with other candidates acquiescence to the inevitable.

Previous to arriving at this conclusion he had entered into an agreement with the friends of other candidates to remain in the rear. They are now disposed to hold him to his agreement. Hence he finds himself hesitating between his own inclination to get out of the McKinley movement and a desire to comply with the wishes of his co-workers. A prominent member of the National Committee asserted to night that Quay was still urging upon other candidates the advisability of allowing the McKinley nomination to be made by acclamation, and that, failing to secure their acquiescence, he would probably, when Pennsylvania was reached in the roll-call, retire from the contest and throw Pennsylvania to the Ohio candidate.

contest and throw Pennsylvania to the Ohio candidate.

The friends of other candidates are still quite determined to continue their candidate in the race to the finish. Platt, as the representative of Gov. Morton, is especially persistent in urging this course. His reason for this is his desire to secure a roll-call for the purpose of putting the New York delegation on record. He, however, decided to abide by the decision of the National Committee in disposing of the New York contests, and not to make any factious opposition. Champions of other candidates coincided in the desirability of a roll-call for the purpose of being able to locate their friends.

contests, and it is believed by those who have given attention that this work will have been found to be so complete that comparatively little will

Necessarily there has been no forwork will have been found to be so complete that comparatively little will be left for the Committee on Credentials.

Necessarily there has been no formal consideration of a declaration of principles on which the party will make its appeal to the country, but it will be found that this branch of the work has been by no means neglected. There has been a very general exchange of views upon this important point, and much done looking to the harmonious crystallization of views which, it is believed, will render it possible for the Platform Committee to reach a conclution with comparatively little delay. Selection has been made of the temporary organisation, and a programme has practically been agreed upon for the permanent organization with Senator Thurston of Nebraska for presiding officer of the convention. When we add to those accomplishments the fact that the Presidential nominee has practically been named, it must be conceded that the convention has apparently a comparatively easy and brief task before it. Obstacles may be encountered, but as yet comparatively few of them are discernible.

The length of time the convention shall sit in all probability will be determined largely by the plan of proceeding which shall be determined by the Committee should elect to reopen all the contests for seats in the convention and to make an original investigation of the various questions which the disputes cover, the proceedings would be much delayed. These contests involve the right of 168 seats, and cover a wide range of controversy, including the contest for seats, and cover a wide range of controversy, including the contest for seats, and cover a wide range of controversy, including the contest for seats, and cover a wide range of controversy, including the contest in detail; that, on the contrary, the verdict of the National Committee will not even of methods employed at the polis. There are stacks of papers that might be examined in almost every case. The preponderance of oppinion is that the Credentials Committee wil influence in commending the verdict is all cases to the committee to which the convention will formally assign the task of inquiring into the qualifications of its members. of inquiring into the qualifications of its members.

On the other hand, there will be a strong pressur, on the part of the delegations whose claims have been adversely passed upon to have the controversy reinvestigated. The defeated delegates generally regard the Credentials Committee in the light of a court of appeals, and in many cases they will insist upon a hearing. In exceptional insiances this request will probably be granted, and the committee will unanimously take up cases like that of Delaware, where both sides to the contest were decide seats, or like that of Arizona, where the names of both parties were placed upon the roll and each delegate was awarded only half a vote. In some instances it is understood no pressure will be brought to bear to secure a reopening of the cases, and New York is one of these. In that State both parties to the dispute will abide by the decision of the National Committee. It is even suggested that a proposition may be made in the convention to make the tamborary roll permanent in all but exceptional cases, which would, of course, if adopted, relieve the Committee on Credentials of the greater part of its labors, and materially expedite the work of the convention.

An analysis of the work of the National Committee in regard to the 16s contests which were originally filed with it, shows that 136 cases were acted on; some of the original number having been abandoned, while several, notably those of Delaware and a portion of the Texas delegation, were referred to the convention. In many cases both contestants and contestees were understood to be McKinley men, notably in all of the Mississippi and South Carolina districts and in certain districts from Tennessee, Virginia and elsewhere.

Of the 136 claimants rejected by the committee, sixty-two were avowed McKinley men. The impression which prevailed during the committee was and elsewhere.

Of the 136 claimants rejected by the committee, sixty-two were avowed Mc-Kinley men. The impression which prevailed during the consideration of these cases, that the committee was deciding a large majority of the cases in favor of McKinley doubtless grew out of the fact that in nearly all of the States where there were a large number of contests, both the contest-ants and the contestees were avowed McKinley men, and as a natural result more McKinley men were necessarily given seats than were the anti-McKinley men, since in so many of the cases contestants and contestees were, according to their own statements, McKinley men.

In New York three of the districts were contested, covering six delegates. Two of the contests were decided in the other districts both delegate and in the other districts both delegates and in the other districts between the other districts betwe

In North Carolina there was a contest in the Sixth District. Both delegates were almitted, each with a half-

In South Carolina there was a contest in each of the districts, and as to the delegates-at-large, covering eighteen votes. Both the contestants and contestes were McKinley men. the contests turning on differences between local factions. All of the contests were decided in favor of the Webster fac-

In Georgia there were contests in three of the districts, and also two of the delegates-at-large, all of which were decided in favor of the McKinley delegates.

In Florida there were contests in the two districts and also the delegates-at-large, the McKinley delegates were accepted in the Second District, also delegates-at-large, the McKinley delegates in the First District being rejected. In Alabama there were contests in the First, Third, Fifth. Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth districts and the delegates-at-large, the Fifth and Ninth districts were decided against the McKinley men.

In California there were contests in the First District, both of which were decided in favor of McKinley men.

In Mississippi there were contests in the Third and Fourth districts, both of which were decided in favor of McKinley men.

In Mississippi there were contests in the seven districts and to the delegates-at-large. All were avowed McKinley men, the fight being among local factions. The Hill faction was successful, except in the Second, Third and Sixth districts.

In Louisiana there were contests in the First. Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth districts, the McKinley delegates being successful except in the Fourth, where the decision was against the McKinley men.

In Texas there were contests in every district and among the delegates-at-large. None of the delegates-at-large were placed upon the temporary roll.

In Tennessee the contests were decided in favor of McKinley delegates, while in the remaining, the Seventh, Tenth and Twelfth, which was decided in favor of the McKinley delegates.

In Kentucky there was but one contest, the Fifth, which was decided in favor of the McKinley delegates. In Arizona there was a contest as to the six delegates-at-large, all being admitted with a half-vote each. The contests in the committee decided that the organization was irregular and could not be recognized.

THE PLATFORM PROBLEM.

THE PLATFORM PROBLEM.

The contest in the Committee on Resolutions is expected to be sharp, but not protracted. As it now appears, there will be little or no difficulty in agreeing upon any of the planks of the platform except that relating to the financial policy of the party. With the selection of a candidate to head the tloket so completely eliminated from the realm of speculation, the financial question has almost entirely monopolized the attention of party men in notel corridors no less than in retired apartments of the party managers ever since they began to congregate here, at the beginning of the past week. The question is still claiming the greater share of consideration, and will continue to hold its place in the front rank of speculation and deliberation until it is finally settled by the convention itself.

Two problems present themselves.

it is finally settled by the convention itself.

Two problems present themselves. The first is, how much to do for silver; the second, how little to do for silver; the second, how little to do for silver; the second how little to fall. These lines of policy will be presented to the Committee on Resolutions, upon meeting the different shades of opinion of the delegates. These are:

First—To declare in explicit terms for a gold standard.

Second—To take a positive stand for the free colings of silver at the ratio of 18 to 1, independent of the course of all other nations.

Third—To practically declare for gold against any further recognition to silver than the present laws give, except upon international agreement, but without mentioning in terms the gold standard and with a few words of encouragement to the friends of silver.

The contest will be principally be of encouragement to the irlends of sliver.

The contest will be principally between the advocates of the first and second propositions, and, as it now appears, the outcome will be a compromise between these, which means, of course, that the platform will be almost all that the gold men will demand. The extreme gold forces will be led by the New York and Massachusetts delegations, seconded strongly by other astern and Mississippi Valley delegates.

The advocates of an extreme declaration for silver are confined largely to the delegations from the intermountain States, with some supporting Pacific Coast delegations from the intermountain States, with some supporting Pacific Coast delegates and possibly a few scattering delegates from other sections. Their representation in the committee will be larger than in the committee will be larger than in the convention, but in mether sufficient to obtain more than a respectful hearing. They are expected to announce that no compromise whatever will be acceptable to them, and thus practically eliminate themselves from the work of preparing the plaform. With the feature of the silver question removed from the deliberations of the convention, it is not believed its deliberations will be greatly prolonged.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

One important question remaining unsettled is that of a Vice-Presidential candidate. Next to the financial plank, the filling of this place on the tloket has engaged the greatest share of speculative attention during the week, but apparently opinion has not been so well-canvassed upon this subject as upon the others. The names of candidates have been suggested, including those of Messrs. Hobart of New Jersey, Gov, Morton and Gen, Tracy of New York, Gov, Buckley and Senator Hawley of Connecticut; Gov. WHITE METAL FANTASIES. Silver Men Talk of a Separate Pres-idential Candidate.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The arrival of Senators Teller and Mantle has had the effect of reviving the interest in the programme of the silver men in the national convention. The silver contingent will be small but compact, and, it is believed, under quite perfect discipline. It will be composed principally of the delegates from the States of Colorado, Montana and Utah, Idaho and Nevada and probably some of the Territories. The delegations from the first four States named are headed by the Senators, who, by their votes, refused to allow the Dingley tariff bill to pass the Senate unless coupled with the provision for the free coinage of silver. These delegates will demand a declaration by the convention in favor of free coinage under the conditions prevailing prior to 1873, and in case of failure to secure this, some, if not all of them, are expected to thereafter cease to act with the convention.

It hus been an open secret for several weeks that this would be their line of action, but it is not yet known whether all the delegates from these States will participate in this movement. It is believed there will be exceptions, but who they will be, if any, will not be determined until the time shall come for action. They will make their main fight in the Committee on Resolutions, but failing there, as they expect to dowill probably carry the contest into the convention of a minority report, which it is supposed will enable them to present their case to the convention and country. They will also possibly issue an address to the country explaining their attitude.

After the conclusion of the Required man in nomination for the Presidency, with the hope of securing for him the support of the Democratic convention of silver men has been suggested for this purpose, but this idea has been practically abandoned.

MORE ABOUT THAT "BOLT"

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Senator Dubois of Idaho and Representative Hariman of Montana joined Senator Teller here tonight. There is no longer any doubt of the purpose of these radical silver men to bolt the action of the convention unless they can have their way about the financial plank. They realize that they are in a hopeless minority, and they have carefully laid their plans to walk out of the convention.

The programme they have arranged will probably furnish the most dramatic and sensational incident of the convention. They intend, as a preliminary, to marshal all the strength they can in the Committee on Resolutions for silver. They know they will fail, but instead of their attempting to secure a compromise, it will be their plan so to throw their strength in the committee as to force, if possible, the adoption of a sraight-out gold plank, believing that an emphatic gold declaration will put them in a more advantageous position for what is to follow. As one of them said to night: "If the Republican convention cannot be right, we will force it to be honest. Better a gold declaration for all concerned than an equivocal plank that means gold."

The fight will then be carried to the floor of the convention under the leadership of Senator Teller. The Colorado Senator, as the head and spirit of the silver strength in the Republican party, it will be followed after the convention has voted down the minority report, which he will, offer by the formal announcement of the severance of the ties which bind him and his associates to the party. This will be done in the form of a statement to the convention or of an address to the people, probably the former. The cilmax will containly be dramatic.

It is probable that Senator Teller will go immediately to Colorado, and other Republican silver men will remaid here and issue an address to the party, This will be done in the form of a statement to the convention of the mantic. MORE ABOUT THAT "BOLT" will go immediately to Colorado, and other Republican silver men will remain here and issue an address to the silverites of the country of all parties calling upon them to support Senator Teller as the preëminent representative of this issue for President. The silver men expect to carry at least five States out of the convention with them, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Nevada and Montana, and they are very hopeful that the Democratic convention at Chicago will nominate the man who who leads the bolt here.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Ex-Congressman W. J. Bryan, the lender of the free-silver wing of the Nebraska Democracy, was one of today's arrivals. The appearance of Mr. Bryan in a hotel corner in consultation with several Republicans from free-silver States of the far West excited much comment.

In respose to a question concerning his mission, Mr. Bryan remarked: "I have nothing to say now except that these gentlemen and I will be found next November voting the same tloket." BRYAN LOG-ROLLING.

Cornelius Bliss Declares the Talk About Him is Mostly Newspaper Comment—A Man Who Booms Bradley.

GY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The Vice-Presidential booms stood still this afternoon and awaited development of a heated wire correspondence between Platt and other Republican leaders and Gov. Levi P. Morton. The import of the message was to obtain his consent to place his name in nomination for the Vice-Presidency.

his name in nomination for the Vice-Presidency.

Chauncey M. Depew was not a party to the urgency call. Instead, Depew said: "Why, Gov. Morton's idea of having me present his name for the Presidential nomination, even though I foresaw defeat, was to have me demonstrate, are, and to say to the convention, that he was not and would not be a candidate for Vice-President." That Flatt has forsaken all hope in the Presidential boom of Gov. Morton is perfectly apparent. When asked this afternoon if he had any hopes, he said tersely: "Mr. Morton's name will be presented to the convention."

There was a rumor current that the New York delegation would present the name of Gen. B. F. Tracy for Vice-President and that the anti-organization delegates would present the name of Gen. B. Bissa and ask Platt's.

New York delegation would present the name of Gen. B. F. Tracy for Vice-President and that the anti-organization delegates would present the name of Cornelius N Bliss and ask Platt's support. To both of these rumors Platt said tonight: "All buncombe. If Gov. Morton will not accept the second place on the ticket, then New York has no candidate."

It was intimated that some of the Ohio people were not at all averse to Morton being the tail of the ticket, but it was also said very plainly that he could get no help from Mr. Hanna.

Cornelius N. Bliss said tonight: "I am not and at no time have been a candidate for the Vice-Presidential nomination. I am aware that kind friends have mentioned my name in that connection during the last few days. There has been more or less newspaper talk about me, but I repeat, I am not a candidate."

According to gossip there is a tendency among the supporters of McKinley to throw the nomination for the Vice-Presidency to some man who might be selected by the opposition. The effect of increasing the movement in the interest of Mr. Dingley of Maine because of his close relationship to Mr. Reed.

in the interest of Mr. Dingley of Maine because of his close relationship to Mr. Reed.

The attitude of Platt is believed to preclude the possibility of his having a controlling influence in throwing the nomination to New York, even if he should have any desire to figure in that capacity. Senator Allison's supporters, being western men, as is Gov. McKinley a western man, the advisability of giving the second piace to one of his supporters in the case of the nomination of McKinley is generally argued.

The agitators of the Dingley movement recall in his interest the fact he is Mr. McKinley's Republican successor as chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, and urge, aside from being from the extreme East and a staunch supporter of Mr. Reed, his own qualities are such as to make him a strong possibility for second place.

Hobart's candidacy was also somewhat improved by the announcement that a large number of the New York delegates were zealously supporting him, as was Evans's candidacy by the arrival of the Wisconsin delegation. Mr. Evans is â native of Wisconsin, and many of the members of that delegation began an earnest canvass in his behalf as soon as they arrived.

WHAT SECRETARY KELLY SAYS.

FRANKFORT (Ky.,) June 14.—Gov. Bradley and party left this evening. The action of the Governor in attending the convention is construed to mean that his name will not go before the convention. D. E. Kelly, who was secretary of the convention which in-structed for Bradley for President, and who accompanied Gov. Bradley to St. Louis, said to an Associated Press rep-

Louis, said to an Associated Press representative:

"Gov. Bradley has assured me that he does not desire second place on the ticket, but if the nomination for Vice-President goes to the South it should be tendered to Kentucky's Governor. Gov. Bradley, with the Kentucky people, represents the culminating point of human greatness, and his well-known views on the currency would serve to strengthen the ticket. Bradley broke the Solid South last fall, and, as McKinley's running mate, the once Solid South would be permanently shattered this fail. I believe that if Bradley is tendered the second place by acclamation he would accept it."

THE DAY OF NOMINATION. ST. LOUIS, June 14.—W. E. Riley, who has been selected as the first as-sistant secretary in the temporary organization, said tonight a nomination could not be reached before Thursday, and that the convention would last through Friday, owing to the fact that there would be no night sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, the hall having been given up for other purposes on those nights.

AMONG THE DELEGATES.

State Hendquarters.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Joseph Manley was severely criticised at a meeting of the Maine delegation today. Some of of the Maine delegation today. Some of the delegates even went so far as to intimate that it would be for the good of the Republican party in Maine to select a new national committeeman. This was brought about by the action of Mr. Manley in announcing on his arrival in St. Louis that McKinley could not be defeated for the nomination. The meeting was behind closed doors and it was decided by the members of the delegation that nothing should be said as to the effort to displace Mr. Manley as committeeman. C. E. Littlefield, chairman of the delegation, admitted that some of the delegates had indulged in some acrimonious criticisms of Manley for the course he pursued in regard to giving up Mr. Reed's fight.

In aswer to the question as to the liability of deposing Manley, Littlefield replied: "I am free to say that Mr. Manley was harehly criticised for the course he adopted. However, we decided that it would be best not to say anything outside the delegation upon this subject. At least, we decided not to say anything for the present."

P. M. Sewall, a member of the Maine delegation, said that while it was true some of the delegates had harshy criticised Mr. Manley, there was po danger than the would be deposed.

The delegation selected its chairman, the delegates even went so far as to Arizona—The Arizona people are in a quandry over the selection of their committeeman. The National Committee having awarded seats to both delegations without giving recognition to either, neither delegation feels empowered to proceed to the selection of men to fill these places. A joint meeting will be held for the purpose, if possible, of arranging a compromise. Both delegations have been here for several days.

Washington—The Washington delegation has arrived, but has not organized. The delegation is instructed for "the maintenance of the present gold sender and against the free coinage of siler except by international agreement." It is understood Andrew F. cific, will be a remthe of the Committee on Resolutions.

California—The California delegation is expected to arrive tomorrow morning. The delgation will have its headquarters at the Southern. So far as can be ascertained the delegation has not yet designated their committeemen. Before leaving their homes they elected John D. Spreckels as member of the National Committe to succeed Mr. De Young, but there will be an effort to reopen this matter on account of the decision of the contests from that State which, being against Mr. Spreckels, it is claimed gives De Young a majority of the delegation. Kansas—About haif the Kansas delegation is here, and the other will arrive tomorrow. Kansas will be seated solid for McKinley, every district having instructed for him. There is only one bimetallist in the delegation is here, and the other will arrive tomorrow. Kansas will be seated solid for McKinley, every district having instructed for him. Rhode Island—The Rhode Island delegation reached town today bearing banners gorgeously decorated and inscribed with motioes declaring for single gold standard. A banner on which was painted the likeness of Thomas B. Reed was also carried.

"Rhode Island is for Reed and gold" is the way C. H. Howland, editor of the Providence News who came with the delegation, expressed it. "Our eight delegates will vote for Thomas B. Reed until a nomination shall have been announced." He continued: "We have no second choice. We want no sound money talk in the platform, but gold straight, square as a die—gold. We want 'gold standard' written in the platform."

Kentucky—The delegates from Kentucky have opened headquarters at Hurst's Hotel. They are unanimous for the Kentucky currency platform, declaring absolutely against the free and unlimited coinage of silver. There will be two contests in the delegation. For national committeeman John W. Yerkes, now filling out the term of Gov. Bradley, who resigned from the committee, will be opposed by Congressman W. H. Hunter, who was the Republican nominee against Senator Blackburn last winter before the Legislature. There will also be a struggle for the chairmanship of the delegation. Sixteen of the eighteen delegates were instructed to vote for Bradley for the Presidential nomination and the others were for McKinley. Since Bradley's withdrawal from the race the delegation is a unit for McKinley.

ST. LOUIS GOSSIP

McKinley Badges More Numerous but Others in Evidence.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WILE)

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The usual wariety and elegance of the badges and buttons displayed here strike all late arrivals. There are naturally more McKinley badges than those of any other candidate, but other candidates are well represented in the variety. The favorite McKinley insignia is a buckeye with a portrait of McKinley attached.

Very beautiful badges bearing in relief the portraits of Allison and Morton are worn by the respective followers of these candidates. Reed and Quay buttons and badges are also seen in large numbers upon the lapels of their friends, while the street hawkers, handling the emblems of all impartially, are encountered at every turn. The Massachusetts delegation brought with it today a button of the shape and color of a gold nugget, bearing the words "gold busis."

NEW YORKERS CAVING DOWN.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—"It does not feel so badly to be beaten as I thought it would," remarked Delegate-at-Large Edward Lauterbach, this afternoon, as he stood in Thomas C. Platt's room and discused with National Committeeman W. A. Sutherland, ex-Senator J. Sloat Fassett and others the deel contested and the consideration of the matter to decide whether a further contest should be made before the Committee on Credentisis in the convention. It was recorded that the action of the National Committee on New York Conference of the Contest in Brooklyn, and it appeared that the men who intended to contest seats of the Platt men abandoned them and the Platt delegates were seated unanimously. The greatest fight made in the contest in Brooklyn, and it appeared that the men who intended to contest seats of the Platt men abandoned them and the Platt delegates were seated unanimously. The greatest fight made in the platt delegates, Howard Carroll and Thurlow Weed Barnes. This was the strongest case the Platt men presented, and yet the Platt delegates where contesting with the Platt delegated, with full delegate secured but half a vote each, shared with the anti-Platt men.

In the other than the contest of the Platt delegate powers—Will Brookfield and Mason G. McCook in the Thirteenth and C. H. T. Collis and Robert J. Wright in the Flitteenth. There was no question about the cialism of Brookfield and McCook, as Dr. Sutherland, who had been fighting in Platt's interest throughout the entire meeting of the committee claimed the right to make the motion to the most stubbornly-contested case was that of the Twelfth District, which split even. In the committee it was known that Mr. Platt was intensely interested and did not want the leader of the faction opposed to him to secure the advantage which the selection of his delegates would give. The talk of a bolt from the convention unless the platt of the faction opposed to him to secure the advantage which might be in the least of his degree of the seating of Bliss and Cruger worked the committee who believed the Platt men to have the best prima facic case. V

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—It will interest the States that have had contests before the National Committee, as it will also interest those who hope for a short convention, to know that those in control of the convention have formulated a plan whereby the numerous contests will not be opened again by the convention or by the Committee on Contested Seats. It has been the general opinion up to late this evening that the long and wearisome task just fininshed by the National Committee would be repeated by the Committee on Credentials of the convention and that a delay of at least a couple of days would ensue, when the defeated contestants or contestees applied for a reopening of their cases.

Bither the McKinley managers are testees applied for a reopening of their cases.

Either the McKinley managers are fearful of delay, or else they believe it is a waste of time and energy to reopen these cases, for the edlet went forth this evening that the convention would by resolution either formailly accept as final the report of the National Committee on all contests decided by them or would instruct the Committee on Credentials to so report. This means that only such contests as the Texas and Delaware ones shall be referred to the convention before such action as would make the temporary roll-call a permanent one with the exception of the two States named.

That the New York delegation and Mr. Platt coincide with this course is one of the peculiarities of ante-convention happenings.

STATE DELEGATIONS' CONVEN-

TIONS.

TIONS.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Almost all of the State delegations have fixed upon 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as the hour when the convention will meet and name their representatives on the Committees on Resolutions, Credentials, Permanent Organization and Rules, as well as upon the National Committee, and the list of honorary vice-presidents. The lowa delegates have not yet arrived. The headquarters of the Hawkeye State have been opened at the Southern, It is expected by the delegates here that Col. D. B. Henderson will be chairman of the delegation, and that the representative on the Committee on Resolutions will be either Senator John H. Gear or George W. French of Davenport. Congressman W. P. Hepburn is slated for the Committee on Credentials.

The Montana delegation is all here with the exception of Mr. Hartman. No organization has yet taken place, but it is probable that either Senator Carter or Senator Mantle will be a member of the Resolutions Committee, and the other will be a member of the Resolutions Committee, and the other will be a member of the National Committee.

CONVENTION HALL DECORATIONS.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The convention hall, in which the convention will be held, is ready for use tonight, if it were needed. The decorations are complete, and all that remains to be done is the locating of the various Suate delegations which will be attended to tomorrow. The convention hall, erected especially for this occasion, is a plain rectangular building, 182252 feet, with an auditorium 160x200 feet, for the use of the delegates and alternates, and surrounding it are tiers of selats and a gallery all around the building. The entire north side of the hall will be occupied by the chairmen, members of the National Committee in the center and the resporters on each side. The delegates are directly in front of the chairman's stand in three blocks of chairs facing the chairman. For the alternates spaces on each side of the delegates, filled with chairs facing toward the delegates, and thus commanding the best possible view not only of the speaker's stand, but also of the main body of the convention.

The central idea in the decoration of the hall is the Monroe doctrine. This is represented by a star, fity feet from tip to tip, covered with bunting, and immediately under the national ensign and the President's flag. The decorator has recognized Cuba by hanging a Cuban flag to the bottom of the President's flag. The decorator has recognized flags of the Monroe doctrine is carried out in the flags of Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua and the United States of Colombia, and Argentine, hanging from the five points of the United States star. From each point of the stars to the galleries stretches a string of flags of all the nations that fly national colors.

Suspended from the gallery are the coats-of-arms of all the States ings. Above the galleries are arranged shields bearing the numes of the States and bunting covers ell the heavy timbers. The original thirteen States are given the places of prominence in the decorations.

Immediately over the Speaker's chair will be the portrait of Lincoln ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The convention navy. Over the Twelfth-street entrance the portrait of Sheridan will face Farragui's.

Strings of mammoth Japanese lanterns are draped from the celling above the chairman, in the galleries on either side, lettered to read, "Republican Convention." On either side of the celling and above the sections reserved for alternates, a huge lantern with small flags and a forty-foot United States flag will be suspended.

Two large white screens on the side of the chairman's stand show eagles with streamers bearing these inscriptions: "Republicanism is Presperity," and "To the Polls, Ye Sons of Freedom." On the outside gilded eagles surmount the main entrance and the Twelfth-street entrance for alternates. On the inside wall, just over the main entrance, is a small painting of Gen. Grant's old home on the Dent farm near St. Louis. The building is a substantial structure of heavy lumber, walled with lath and stucco.

structure of heavy lumber, walled with lath and stucco.

Every precaution has been taken to provide against accident, in case of sudden exit from the building. The main floor has twenty-four exits and the galleries fifteen exits to the outside, where broad stairways lead to the ground. The hall will be used for the Populist National Convention in July.

"FULL HEADS OF STEAM." ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Uproar and con tusion prevailed in down-town streets at midnight tonight. Bands of every variety paraded the streets followed by shouting enthusiastic clubs from almost every State in the Union. They played every sort of tune, or tried to do so, from "White Wings" to classical selections from the operas. They marched and countermarched from hotel to hotel. They paraded through the corridors and around the offices of the local newspapers. There were scores and scores of them, and it is doubtful if the oldest inhabitant of this ancient city ever saw such a furore on a Suncity city ever saw such a furore on a Sun-day night. It began in a mild way at dawn and hour by hour continued at the rate of geometrical pregression until midnight when the climax was reached. During the afternoon volunteer corps of the Salvation Army added materially to the volume of uproarious and dis-cordant melody. To use a steamboat to the volume of uproarious and discordant melody. To use a steamboat phrase, they had on a "full head of steam." They sang wildly and enthusiastically the peculiar hymns of their religion, they stopped at the street crossings and in front of the hotels and exhorted sinners great and small to mend their ways and flee from the wrath to come. Mingled with the songs of the Salvationists could be heard campaign songs, setting forth the virtues of the Republican party or lauding some favorite son aspiring to Presidential honors.

And the saloons, hundreds of them, were open all day and all night. They were liberally patronized and scores of visitors became doubly enthusiastic and demonetrative. But with all the wild hurrah and confusion there was no lawlessness or disorder of a serious character. The local police had little more to do in the discharge of their duty than they ordinarily have had in days gone by on a Sunday night.

THE SUNDAY NIGHT. ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Although it took from dawn to midnight for the uproar of Republican enthusiasm to reach a climax. it required scarcely two hours for the excitement to subside. It collapsed like a pricked balloon and by 2 o'clock the town had resumed its normal state, save that the cabbles were busier. So, too, were the all-night saloons and restaurants. In these were congregated the visitors who had come here for a "time." Here and there through the down-town streets were groups of roystering pleasure-seekers and politicians reeling to their hotels. Some of them were still possessed with the wild, melodious craze that prevailed an hour before, and in a maudlin way sang disconnected snatches from popular airs. As morning approached they became less frequent, and at length quiet was attained. So ended Sunday night in St. Louis. ST. LOUIS, June 14.-Although it

PLATFORM PLANKS,

California, Nebraska and Utah in Favor of Aiding Beet Sugar.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—California, Nebraska and Utah will urge the adoption of a declaration in favor of encouraging the beet-sugar industry. National Committeeman M. H. de Young of California, says he expects the proposition to receive the support of all States where cereals are produced, because the beet industry will give a crop paying $50 an acre, where corn and wheat pays only $5 to 10. Last year California produced 40,000,000 pounds of beet-augar. The following is a draft of the plank to be proposed:

"The practicability of successfully growing sugar-beets throughout the United States had been clearly demonstrated. We believe the expansion of this industry will materially add to the wealth of our farmers and increase the value of our farmers and increase the value of our farming lands. And we therefore favor such a measure as will encourage the production of domestic sugar up to the limit of producing all of the $125,000,000 now sent to foreign countries in payment for this indispensable article.

"We advocate sufficient protection to develop a national sugar industry."

"We favor adequate protection to any new industry which will help our agricultural class. For instance, a national sugar industry."

WOULD LEAVE A NOVE.

WOULD LEAVE A HOLE.

WOULD LEAVE A HOLE.

ST LOUIS, June 14.—Senator Warren of Wyoming, who arrived here tonight from Washington, believes that the best way to settle the dispute over the money plank is to leave the whole question open. Senator Warren is a free-silver man, but was instrumental in securing a declaration by the convention of his State against bolting. He thinks it would be a wise policy, rather than attempt to frame a financial plank, to be acceptable to the extremists on both sides, which must, in the nature of things, be unsatisfactory to both, to leave the whole question to the public for solution.

"If I could have my way," said he, "I would make no equivocal declaration. Let the Republicans of the country frankly acknowledge the difference which they fully realize. In tariff and other questions we are united. On the money question our differences seem irreconcitable, but West, East, North and South, believe in the truest discharge of our obligations. No Republican wants anything but the soundest money, and no one desires repudiation at home or abroad. Let us say that upon that we are of one mind. But let us stop there and allow the Republican party in the future to work out the problem as to the manner and extent of silver coinage. There should be no proscription on one side or the other. If the members, of the party honestly differ, let them honestly say so."

ST. LOUIS. June 14.-The Commit with an important question when Abra-with an important question when Abraham Grubber of New York presents this proposed plank:

"The Republican party demands that public officials be thoroughly qualified to perform the services required of them; that civil service examinations be conducted only by men who, from experience, know the duties to be performed by, or the work required of, persons holding office and that the questions asked of applicants be only such as directly concern the service to be performed."

It is expected that this plank is a shrewd move to draw the convention into the civil-service controversy now on in New York State, and which involves State constitutional precincts and the appointment of sixty or more officials to carry out the provisions of the new liquor law. The convention will undoubtedly refuse to have any pert in the matter, and decline to express itself.

OPPOSED TO FREE COINAGE.

OPPOSED TO FREE COINAGE. ST. LOUIS, June 14.-There was conference tonight at the Southern Ho-tel at which the following States were represented: Maine, New Hampshire Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Isl-Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The question of a financial plank in the platform was discussed and the following was agreed upon as satisfactory, and will be presented to the Committee on Resolutions:

"We favor the maintenance of existing gold standard, and are opposed to the free colnage of silver except by international agreement for bimetallism with the leading commercial nations of the world."

The men in the conference were those who will probably represent their States in the Committee on Resolutions.

BRADLEY KEEPS OUT. Will Not Enter the Race for First or Second Place.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Delegate Yerkes of Kentucky received a telegram from Gov. Bradley today, announcing his name would not be presented to the convention. This has been in the Governor's mind for some time. Gov. Bradley will arrive here tomorrow morning to engage actively in the contest in behalf of a piatform declaration for a gold standard.

A McKinley Parade.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—A monster McKinley parade that has been arranged for Wednesday night is to be the largest of the kind ever seen. The parade, which will move at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, will be reviewed by prominent men from the balcony of the Southern Hotel. It will be in fourteen divisions, under the direction of Gen. James C. Howe of Kenton, O.

In the the parade will be clubs, many o'f them ununiformed, from every State and Territory, and all the Republicans in St. Louis have been invited to take part. Gen. Howe, as grand marshal, has announced a staff for the parade including E. J. Miller, Columbus, adjutant-general: eight assistant generals and a large number of aides, including Max Pracht, Oregon; H. J. Cleveland, Arizona; C. N. Akers, Arizona, and F. W. Collins, Lincoln, Neb. A McKinley Parade.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

Senor Riberio, the Portuguese ex-Minister of the Colonies, is dead. A dispatch received at Rome from Massowah confirms the report of the acquittal of Gen. Baratier! by the court martial which heard charges against him connected with the defeat of the Italians by the Abyssinians. A Las Vegas, N. M., dispatch says about half the delegates to the Territorial Demoratic Convention which will meet here to-morrow have already arrived. Among them are some office-holders, who are quietly working to secure, an indorsement of the administration and the gold standard, but the indications are that they will be snowed under.

A Hartford, Ct., dispatch says the famous collection of violins owned by the late B. D. Hawley of this city has been sold to Ralph Granger of San Diego, Cal. The price paid is said to be in the neighborhood of $20,000. The collection consists of twelve instruments, and includes the famous King Joseph violin, said to be the finest in existence.

Within ten days the Navy Department will said to be the meet in existence.

Within ten days the Navy Department will put out advertisements calling for proposals for building the three great battleships, three torpedo destroyers and ten torpedo boats, for which Congress has provided in the Navai Appropriation Bill. This is an unexampled record for forehandedness in the preparation of designs and the fixing of the features of the craft to be built.

Fell into Burning Whisky

LOUISVILLE (Ky...) June 14.—Fire this morning destroyed a large warehouse at the Whit Mills Distillery Company, situated at Eighteenth and Lexington streets, entailing a $120,000 loss which is fully insured. Fireman Van Schwab fell into a burning stream of whisky and was so badly burned that it is thought he will die.

TTHACA (N. Y.,) June 14.—The exercises of the twenty-eighth annual commencement of Cornell University were begun today by Rev. T. Edwin Brown, D.D., of Philadelphia, who preached the baccakureate sermon to the graduating class.

A Harvard Graduation CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) June 14.—The first event in the graduation of the class of '96 at Harvard University occurred today. Rev. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn preached the baccalaureate sermon.

National flowers have been adopted in various countries as follows: Greece. violet; Canada, sugarmaple; Egypt, lotus; England, rose; France, flour-de-lis; Germany, corn flower; Ireland, shamrock; Italy, illy; Prussia, linder; Saxony, mignonette; Scotland, thigtle; Spain, pomegranate; Wales, leek.

Regular Correspondence.) The difficulty over contracts on the Yaqui River canal between the contractors, French & Reed of Los Angeles, and the Sonora and Sinoloa Irrigation Company, have been settled. This was effected by means of a board of arbitration. The board found $25,000 in gold due the contractors on the work done. The period of the concession has been extended, in view of the late delay in operations. Col. Kosterlitzki of the dreaded Rurales has met the American troops at San Bernardino ranch on the line. The plan of campalgn was arrenged and has been forwarded to the City of Mexico for approval.

A party of engineers are examining a line for a proposed rallroad from Deming, N. M., to Macosari, the copper camp purchased by the Rothschilds.

The remains of the recently-deceased Guyamas merchant prime.

The remains of the recently-deceased Guyamas merchant prince, Francisco Seldner, were forwarded from Hamburg on the 24th ult. and are expected to arrive at the Sonora metropolis in the course of a short time, where they will be interred with elaborate ceremony by the Masonic order, of which order deceased was a thirty-second-degree member.

The orange outlook is glowing. The crop will be but medium. The oranges were all sold before May 25, at $1 (United States) a box. Such prices are unprecedented. An Arizona buyer, J. J. Bushard, purchased twenty carloads. Another buyer named Smythe traveling for Seward & Co., of Baitimore, got away with seventy carloads. E. Luketich & Co., who have loaned money on orange crops, thereby profiting enormously, will also pick up a good many carloads.

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONE LIVER REGULATOR is no drastic, violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION

SHOULD not be regarded as a trifling allment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

C. M. STEVENS & CO., Auctioneers.

It's a bit early in the season to think about the fall races, at Agricultural Park, but over in Secretary Brown's office on North Main street, the prepar-ation for the races have already begun and every day in the week, at any hour of the day, a knot of horsemen may be found chatting and chinning concerning the prospect for the fall races in this city.

The prospect is conceded to be good. There will be just as big a quota as ever of fast California horses, that can be counted upon to be entered by their owners at the meeting, and in addition to the campaigners seen before, a num-ber of new trotters and pacers will be presented for the grandstand's ap-proval. Silkwood, that sturdy horse, proval. Silkwood, that sturdy horse, may be expected, in the hands of Hodges, who has leased him for the season, to show up in capital form. W. Wood, in the hands of Ben Cheboya, is reported to be in good condition, ready for the circuit, and Waldo J. and Seymour Wilkes are equally well off. This quartette of pacers will serve as a nucleus of fast horses, around which will be gathered a string of animals with records varying from 2:10 to 2:30. The music of their hoof beats on the solid track out at Agricultural Park will be sweet melody in the ears of the turf devotee, who spends his days discussing, and his nights in dreaming of the work of these blooded steeds.

POSSIBLE CHANGE OF DATE.

POSSIBLE CHANGE OF DATE. The races will probably be held ear lier in the season this year than they were last. That is the plan as contemplated by the association's board of directors, and it will, in all probability, be carried out. Last year the wind-up of the day's races was usually accompanied by a chilly wind, which rendered the holding of one's seat in the grandstand a rather unpleasant task. This could be obviated by holding the meeting a few weeks earlier in the season, soon enough to get the advantage of proper weather and late enough to accommodate all the host of folks who return to the city from a summer's outing, in September and October.—

A committee has been appointed by the board of directors to arrange for a speed-programme for the meeting. The committee is made up of L. J. Rose, Capt. Newton and Capt. Hines. This committee will make a report to the board at its regular meeting next month.

G. W. McNair, the starter who received such universal and hearty commendation for his work at the Breeders' meeting last year, may be engaged by the association to perform similar work for it. McNair has made a very reasonable proposal to the board of directors and there is every likelihood of its acceptance, and the engagement of McNair as starter of the meeting.

A man signing himself as M. W. Woods, of San Francisco, has offered to place an electric starting gate at the park for use during the meeting, and this offer has been taken under consideration by the board.

RILEY'S GORGEOUS RAIMENT.
Riley Grannan is naturally superstitious and his hoodoo has taken an odd form. As the greatest plunger on the American turf today, Grannan has naturally provoked much criticism by his shabby clothes. Strangers who see him for the first time are disappointed. They expect to see a man almost covered with flashing diamonds and with faultiessly-fitting clothes, neat headgear and polished boots. Instead they see a man whose complete raiment would not bring at public auction $1.25.
Grannan has been joked a good deal about his clothes. One day he explained the mystery in this way:
"You fellows can laugh all you please, but I can't afford to wear good clothes. Yes, that's what I mean. I can't afford it. Why, one day after I had made a pretty fair winning I thought I would be a dude. I bought a $75 suit of clothes an $8 hat and a $16 pair of shoes. Then I spent $120 for six suits of silk underwear. I bought a half-dozen pair of silk socks for $15 and paid $300 for a diamond scarf pin. Then I paid $120 for a gallus watch chain and $175 more for a pair of diamond sleeve buttons. I didn't need a watch, as I had a good one, but I paid $15 for a yellow leather case for my field glasses. The case had my initials in sterling silver and a bigshoulderstrap with a silver buckle. I paid $8 for two pairs of yellow kid gloves. I must have spent a thousand that night. I took a Turkish bath and the next morning I put on all the stuff. That day I lost $60,000. I felt like a looser the minute I got to the track. When I got back to the city that night I gave away all the dude things except the diamonds. And I didn't get back my luck again until I got a loan on them. No, sir, I would rather be lucky and look a Wandering Willy than unlucky and look like a dude. If it hadn't been for those dude clothes I might have won a million that day."

PACIER VS. TROMEM.

It makes little difference today whether a colt paces or trots, provided the has any ideas as to rapid transit from wire to wire, and doesn't shirk a tot finish. The pacer had led as to speed ever since turf history commenced in America. From 1830 to 1840, Drover, 2:28, was the fastest on record. From 1840 to 1850, Unknown (to wagon.) 2:23. From 1850 to 1880, Old Pocahontas, 2:17½ (to wagon.) From 1850 to 1870, Billy Boyce (to saddle,) 2:14½; Yankee Sam (to harness,) 2:16½, leading the great Dexter's 2:17½ performance. From 1870 to 1880 Sleepy Tom, 2:12½, champion of the harness brigade. From 1830 to 1890 it was the great Johnston, 2:06½, and thus far on this decade we have the wonderful Robert J., 2:01½. As far back as 1829, when, of course, everything as to speed development was crude, old Bowery Boy paced two miles in 5:04½, being within half a second of twenty seconds ahead of any trotter's best performance at the distance—Rattler 5.04. Till well along toward 1850 most of the few pacers out were of untraced lineage, showing how little attention was paid to them. In all probability the pacer will be the first to enter the two-minute domain and Robert J. may accomplish the feat the coming season.

NEWS OF CYCLING.

Professionals Called Down in Texas. The Local Situation.

Professionals Called Down in Texas.

The Local Situation.

Dispatches from San Antonio, Tex., where the national L.A.W. circuit race meet was held yesterday for the benefit of a lot of professionals who are following the circuit, tell of the prompt damper put upon "jockeying" by the referee. Otto Ziegler, Dr. Parker and H. C. Clark, who rode in the five-mile professional scratch event and finished in that order, were politely informed that it was "no race." The referee had reason to suspect that the racing men had "jockeyed"—that some of the tactics alleged to have been the fault of Cabanne, Titus and Murphy, were used in the race—and the event was declared off. This referee's name is not given, but lovers of clean cycling will make an effort to ascertain who he is. For weeks there has been a cry for the services of some man, who would guarantee to devote his entire time to following the big circuit, to act as referee of races. Such an official is the one person needful in circuit racing, especially where the shrewd professionals are concerned. It is not denied that the men who are riding for honors and gold are met by sharp competition and they therefore become correspondingly shrewd. To "jockey" a race to permit a certain man to win may do no visible harm to the public, inasmuch as there are no betting accompaniments, but the sport would be better without it. Referees have a great deal to contend with. In many cases the man chosen to fill the place is an official of the city in which the race is given, a noted judge, lawyer or business man, and to offer such a man compensation for the work would be, in most cases, an insult. Necessarily, then, is the referee a man who is not sufficiently experienced in the "little arts of the game," as ex-Chalman Howard E. Raymond of the L.A.W. referee a man who is not experienced in the "little game," as ex-Chairman

The amount of the purse is to be divided into three equal parts, one part for each heat, in which the money is to be divided, 50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent. In addition to the above events there is to be a special free-for-all pace and a three-mile dash for trotters and pacers eligible to the 2:25 class.

The breeders are contemplating hoding their fall meeting in Los Angeles at Agricultural Park, despite the comparative fallure they made in point of attendance in this city last year. The Breeders are welcome though, for no association gives cleaner or better racing.

THE BICYCLE BUSINESS.

THE BICYCLE BUSINESS.

It is estimated that there are in America 4,000.000 bicycle riders, who have invested $300,000.000 in wheels, $10,000,000 in bleycle clothing and $20,000,000 in sundries and repairs. Two hundred and fifty bicycle manufacturers, five large thre makers and 500 manufacturers of sundries, having a total investment of $69,000,000, have been benefited by this traffic. The estimated capital invested in retail establishments repair shops, race tracks and club houses is $21,000,000 making the total American investment in cycling equal to $600,000,000. During '96, it is claimed, 1,000.000 wheels and 3,000.000 tires will be produced, giving employment to 75,000 bicycle workers and 3.000 tire employees. Fifty thousand persons are employed in sundries factories and 22,000 as retail dealers and repair men, making the total number of persons connected with the bicycle industry 4,250,000. Verily, the cycle is geting there.

at Athletic Park, July 11. It is a long way ahead, but "Pat" needs much time.

The riders of the Columbia Club emulated the Citrus Wheelmen in a club run to Santa Monica yesterday. They left Fifth and Broadway at 9 a.m.

The Santa Monica road race on July 4 promises to be a big affair. A number of men are already training over the course. The race is to be held under the supervision of the Associated Cycling Clubs. Entry blanks can be had of D. C. McGarvin, No. 2204 South Spring street. Prizes of kid gloves will be offered and given to ladies who guess the three first men in.

The Citrus Wheelmen expect to give another meet on July 4, at the Santa Monica track. The programme will be made up of amateur and professional events. The exact number and nature of these, with the prizes for the rame, will be announced later. One of the novel features will be a coasting match, which is not, as might be expected, a speedy race, but the reverse.

field and Track Athletics at Santa Monica Yesterday.

The attendance at the athletic games at the Southern Pacific bicycle track at Santa Monica yesterday afternoon at the Southern Pacific bicycle track at Santa Monica yesterday afternoon disappointed the anticipation that there would be a big crowd. Many people went down on the afternoon trains, but they yielded largely to the attractions of the beach as against their interest in an exhibtion of amateur sports. There were perhaps three hundred people on the grounds. Fay Stevenson acted as announcer, and said numerous funny things. F. L. Jahn was referee, A. Schroeder was clerk and the judges were: C. Entenmann, C. H. Rohde and Thomas Strohm. The Los Angeles Military Band furnished music. The first event was the running broad jump for which the entries were: William B. Straube, W. J. Culter, Herman Sturm, Louis Breer, E. H. Nimmer and W. J. Bliesner. Culter, Breer and Bliesner did not run. The running course was about one hundred feet, and the landing place was in loose dirt. The tape showed the result as follows: Straube won, 18.8 feet; Sturm second, 18.6 feet; Nimmer third, 17.3 feet.

For the high jump the entries were: W. J. Culter, William B. Straube, Herman Sturm, Louis Breer, Charles Block, F. Lee and W. J. Bliesner. Judges. Strohm and Rohde raised the pole, notch by notch till the contestants failed to clear it. Lee won, 5.6 feet; Block and Bliesner both second, 5.4 feet, Block and Bliesner both second, 5.4 feet, Bliesner third, 5.3 feet. All who contested made over five feet.

The entries for the hop, step and jump were as follows: William B. Straube, Herman Sturm, W. J. Culter, Louis Breer, A. E. Stein and W. J. Bliesner. Breer and Bliesner did not run. Straube won, making 39.4 feet, Sturm second, 39.2 feet; Stein third, 36.2 feet.

For the pole vault the entries were Straube, Sturm, Breer, Nimmer and Culter and all of them appeared in the contest. Higher and higher did the jumpers clear the cross pole till Judge Strohm had to balance himself on the back of a chair to place it on one side and some of the athletes formed a human stepladder to reach it on the other side. Sturm won, clearing at an even 10 feet; Bree

The contestants in the hand-overhand-climb were: Straube, Nimmer, Sturm, Breer, Harms, Steln, Culter, F. Haberstro and F. J. Gollmer. Sturm went forty-eight feet up the rope and won, Stein second, 36.1 feet, Gollmer third, 34.9 feet.

The next event was an exhibition wrestling bout, Swiss style, between Frank Sentous and L. Tasche of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The contestants seemed well matched. Tasche won the first, third and fifth falls out of five and carried off the honors.

An exhibition on horizontal bar was given by a picked class of the Turnverein, assisted by Ben Bogner of the San Francisco Athletic Club, who appeared as clown.

A 100-yard running race was won by Gollmer, Gillingham second, Schlelos third: time 13 2-5s.

Kathel Kerr, who has the world's record for throwing a 12-pound hammer, gave an exhibition throw and sent the hammer 112.6 feet, the record being 124 feet.

Sentous and Tasche appeared in an exhibition wrestling bout, catch-ascatch-can. Tasche came out ahead, winning three falls out of five.

In another 100-yard running race, Culter won, Lee second; time 10½s.

IN PUGILISTIC CIRCLES.

The Promised Bout Between Cham-

The Promised Bout Between Champion Corbett and Sailor Sharkey.

The sports of San Francisco are all agog over the match between Champion Corbett and Tom Sharkey, the "Marine," which is to come off before the National Club on the 24th of June, 1896.

Columns of space are being devoted by the dailies of the northern metropolis to portraits of the men, in all positions, with minute descriptions of the training work, gossip about the quarters of each man, etc., etc. The same stuff is being telegraphed over the world, and the report is that sportsmen from far and near are headed toward the city by the bay, which has suddenly become the Mecca of puglists, and ring hangers-on in general.

Only four rounds of fighting will be vouchsafed the spectators, but those four, lasting twelve minutes, will be in the language of the topical singer, "warm bables." A contingent of sports from this city expects to take in the "mill." and there will be 500 men interested in its outcome, for every man who sees the actual contest. There are opinions galore as to the probable result four rounds of punching. The consensus of these seems to be that Corbett will "make a monkey" of the big marine, if he does not succeed in knocking him out altogether.

"KID" LAVIGNE'S GOOD WORK.

Kid Lavigne's doing up of Dick Burge of England before the National Sporting Club of London. which the American accomplished in seventeen rounds, has lifted the Yankee youth suddenly to a great helght across the ocean, for they were of a very decided opinion that no boxer among lightwelghts had any business with their pet. Burge ruled a big favorite in the betting, in spite of the fact that there was considerable Lavigne money sent over for the occasion, some of the wagers, it is said, being better than two to one on the home man. It was one of the opportunities of a decade for a sport with money, for it was as plain as ever a gambling proposition gets that the Kid would win. At the same time it appeared the reverse to Englishmen who had never seen Lavigne perform. To "size up" Lavigne in his clothes or any place, for that matter, outside a rugged fight in the ring, he is not overly impressive as to what he is capable of doing. He appeared to be altogether too short of stature and in the reach and in height to fill out what they judged would be the proper sort of opponent for the bigger Burge. They argued that a boxer who could give Heavyweight Smith a nineround argument before succumbing to such superior weight ought surely to be able to defeat a man as much smaller than himself as was Lavigne, and that was the way Burge looked at it and the only reason he consented to enter into battle with a man near his class in weight. None of the welters of this country, try as they would, could ever get Burge to terms. But "KID" LAVIGNE'S GOOD WORK.

when he saw what a small groy Lavigne looked, he was eager the man that got a decision of Walcott, and had he won woul Walcott, and had he won would have held himself henceforth above those various men of his weight in this country who have bothered his dreams so much. It was a rather cunning try for a short cut to a big thing, but by failing to get there Burge exposed himself thoroughly as a very raw specimen of a boxer to call, himself "champion of the world."

Two Exhibitions of the National Game at Athletic Park. There was baseball at Athletic Park yesterday, and it was worth going niles to see.

The Wilson-Trifby game was characterized by some heavy hitting and su-perb fielding. The Trilbys were there strong, and were accompanied by a goodly crowd of their colored brethren, goodly crowd of their colored brethren, who showed their appreciation of the colored boys work by lusty cheers, and in various other ways. The Trilbys started right in when the ball was pitched and before they were retired had scored two men and they kept up their good work and landed the game, 11 to 9.

Nettles of the Trilbys is largely responsible for the victory of his team, as he hit the ball in all directions at opportune moments.

Griffen, the Trilbys' twirler, was very effective, and kept the hits well scattered, and had the Wilsons at his mercy at all stages of the game.

The Admirals and Wilsons played the second game, which was rather tame.

Kennedy, known as a base ball enthusiast of the most pronounced sort, returned to his home in this city yesterday from a trip throughout the East. When asked as to the prospect of re-When asked as to the prospect of re-establishing professional baseball in Los Angeles, Dr. Kennedy replied that not before next spring was there any hope of having the proper kind of ball in this city. At that time, it is highly probable that 4. Coast league will be formed to include Los Angeles, and to play a season of eight months. The docprobable that a Coast league will be formed to include Los Angeles, and to play a season of eight months. The doctor said that a number of first-class eastern players, among them many who played here in '92, talked to him, and expressed a desire to sign with the proper kind of a club here next year. "As a matter of fact," said the doctor, "the ball we had here in '92 was just as good as the article mow seen in the National League. Such men as Decker, "Kid" Hulen, Everett and others are among the best men in the league. They and others said to me that they would prefer playing a season of eight months in California to one of four months in the East. We would have had a good club here this year but for the Barnes aggregation which visited us last winter. Now we shall have to wait until next season for the game to begin."

PITCHING UNDER NEW RULES.

PITCHING UNDER NEW RULES. Big Roger Connor is quoted as say-ing: "I am in favor of a return to the old pitching rule. The rules in vogue today have put many a pitcher out of the business, and I cannot see wherein today have put many a pitcher out of the business, and I cannot see wherein the games are more interesting today in batting or fielding than under the old pitching rule. In fact, the old rules resulted in closer scores and cleverer infield plays. Another thing I want to call your attention to is this: There is less bunting today, and bunting, to my mind, is one of the most scientific points in the game of baseball. It develops base running and fielding and sharpens the work of the infielder. Of course there are more hits under our present pitching law, and the averages of the batsmen are boomed. The hitting is undoubtedly livelier. But there's the rub. Every man who comes to the bat today is expected to make a hit.
Under the old rules a hit was a scarcity, and when a man got his base on a clear single he created a surprise.
There are no surprise parties today,
Any man who faces the pitcher is liable to scratch out a single. And how can it create a surprise at the bat when any man, no matter how weak he may be with the stick, is likely to hit the Athletic Clab

COUNC2L FORECAST.

Hitching Ordinance to Come Up for

The City Council will today receive from the City Attorney a draft of the hitching ordinance, which he was instructed, a week ago, by the Council to prepare. The ordinance simply pro-vides that no vehicle for hire shall be vides that no vehicle for hire shall be allowed to stand on the streets in a certain district bounded by Temple and Third and Main and Broadway streets, unless consent is obtained from the merchant, in front of whose place of business the vehicle may be. This is a shrewd move on the part of the Council to folst all responsibility for the condition of these streets, as regards the hitching nuisance, upon the merchants themselves. It is possible that the City Attorney will report that such an ordinance would not be legal and could not be made to hold. In that event, the whole matter would probably be shelved by the Council, for all time to come.

It is possible that the problem of securing proper street-sweeping from the contractor, who is paid a large sum of money for alleged inferior work, will be discussed in the Council meeting today. The supervision of the street-sweeping has been turned over to thealth Officer Steddom. That officer has been making a quiet investigation of the whole business since he was given charge of it, and there is a rumor that he will deliver to the Council, either today or in the near future, some very plain talk upon the subject. The Councilment have announced their willingness to allow Dr. Steddom an extra deputy, to have charge of the street-sweeping inspection, and this deputy will be appointed at once.

Street Superintendent Howard's communication to the Council, upon the subject of "Filthy gutters on paved streets, and how they may be cleaned at slight expense to the city," will be received and acted upon. It will probably be referred to the Board of Public Works for a recommendation as to the plan it proposes.

The various petitions to the Council, filed during the past week, and published in these columns, will be each received and referred to its proper committee. allowed to stand on the streets in a

Ignoring the wishes of many excel-lent architects who desired to send in plans for the numerous schoolhouses to be put up, and who wished to make them in appearance worthy of the city, the Council ordered the Superintendent of Buildings to prepare the plans for all the new buildings, which was done conomically, so much so that tors had to do all their figuring ings were received and it was found that the aggregate of all the lowest bids was $191,000. There happened to be only $180,000 left in the fund, and at this juncture a firm stepped in and offered to take all or none of the jobs for a round $180,000. If this was a prepared surprise, it was complete, and the capture easy. A contract was at once made with Messrs. Mackay & Young, dated October 8, 1895, for their figure and providing for completion of all the school buildings on Jan uary 15, 1896, a manifest impossibil-ity, but not so regarded at the time. Thirty days' extension was afterward granted, bringing the date to February 15. On February 17, four of the houses in an unfinished condition, namely, Boyd, Sentous, Norwood and Sixthatreet, were taken possession of by the Board of Education. Recorder, who visited Canton recently Maj. McKinley is said to have quoted and reaffirmed the following words from one of his speeches delivered at Niles, O., some two years ago;

"I am in favor of the double stand-ard, but I am not in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver in the United States, until the nations of the world shall join us in guaranteeing to silver a status which the laws now accord to gold. With our present light, every consideration of safety requires us to hold our present status until the great nations shall agree to an integrational ratio." an international ratio.

No statement could well be clearer or more explicit than this. The atti-tude here defined so succinctly is today substantially that of the great majority of Republican voters through out the country. It is the preponder gates to the St. Louis convention, and the financial plank adopted by that convention will undoubtedly en body this idea, in substance.

The efforts which have been mad so persistently to elicit from Maj. Mc-Kinley some dogmatic declaration of his views on the silver question, in advance of the convention, have been made by his political enemies, not by his friends. These efforts were made in the hope that some expression might be elicited from him which could be distorted by his opponents into statement injurious to his candidacy. Maj. McKinley very properly and very wisely declined to make any direct statement; for whatever he might have said would have been seized upon by The questions that arise, in view of these peculiar proceedings, are: "Why is it that there has been no acceptance in proper form of the work done under this contract? Why did the Mayor and Council pass the demand without such acceptance? How is it that no penaity whatever has been exacted from the contractors and no explanation made to the public why this singular leniency has been exercised by his opponents and used "for all it was against him. this important question. Let it not be supposed that Mai. Mc-Kinley's silence on this subject is due to uncertainty, insincerity, or moral cowardice. Standing in the position he occupies, it would have been an ac of indelicacy, and an unwarranted assumption for Maj. McKinley to formulate his personal views at this time It would have made him subject to the suspicion-or at least amendable to the charge-of seeking to dictate to the Republican National Convention a portion of its platform.

(Washington Special to Chicago Trib-ne, June 9:) President Cleveland has permitted himself to be interviewed by ball player. "Billy" McGunnigle, manager of the Louisville club, is the man who induced the President to talk. man who induced the President to talk. Seventeen years ago, when Mr. Cleveland was a struggling attorney of Buffalo and a popular man about town, "Billy" McGunnigle pitched for the Buffalo team in the National League, and was the star of that season.

Mr. Cleveland was one of Buffalo's noted admirers of baseball, who attored admirers of baseball, who Always a Political Issue.

(Omaha Bee:) .The so-called tariff convention held at Detroit was not a particularly impressive affair. Its object was to inaugurate a movement for taking the tariff question out of partisan politics, and the few undoubtedly worthy persons who got together adopted a report urging that this should be done, but there is not the slightest probability that anybody else will pay any attention. The advocates of removing the tariff from partisan politics are right in saying that it is distinctively a business question, but none the less it has from the beginning of the government been made an issue between political parties, and there is no probability that it will ever be otherwise. Always a Political Issue.

Simpson, and to that end they break into the newspapers with interviews

the Populist party—the jealousy of its

Simpson, who is head and shoulders

That Time Will Never Come.

(Chicago Times-Herald.) While the tariff will continue to be regarded as a business question by those who are engaged in the productive industry and who are directly interested in the maintenance of protective schedules, the time will never come when it will cease to be a political question for the reason that the major portion of the revenues to run the government must be raised by impost taxes. This fact destroys all immediate possibility of a speedy elimination of the question from the realm of politics—for "politics" in its higher sense is the science of government. There will always be difference of opinion among the people as to whether the tariff schedule shall be adjusted with reference solely to its That Time Will Never Come. adjusted with reference solely to its revenue-getting function or whether its power to develop industry shall be the chief concern. The settlement of this question is "politics." and upon each side there will always be a sharp alignment of party strength.

The Democratic Nominee.

(Chicago News.) It seems to be nearly as well settled that 'ex-Gov. Horace Boies of Iowa will receive the nomination at Chicago as that ex-Gov. William McKinley of Ohio will be so honored by the delegates at St. Louis. The inciplent booms of Stevenson, Bland, and Morrison seem to have left the country in the company of those belonging to Reed, Morton and Quay and to have left remaining the more vigorous ones of Boies and McKinley in possession of the political field. Mr. Boies is pretty well known beyond the State of Iowa, of which he was elected Governor for two successive terms. In 1889 he was elected by a plurality of 6523, being the first Democratic Governor the State had had since 1858. In 1891 he was reëlected by a plurality of 23,000 by Gov. Jackson. At the Democratic national convention of 1892 Mr. Boles received 103 votes for the Presidential nomination on the first and only ballot taken. He ranked third in the list of candidates voted for at that convention, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Hill leading him.

Democrats not Cured Yet.

(Chicago Tribune:) It is true that the events of the last three years have knocked a good deal of their free-trade theories out of the Democrats, for a time at least. But there is no reason to expect that they will ever occupy precisely the same ground on the tariff question that the average Republican does. They will be found four years hence demanding a large reduction of the tariff duties then in force. So there is not the slightest ground for expecting that the tariff question will be taken out of politics and made a non-partisan one. It will be a long time before this happens. Democrats not Cured Yet.

Now the fact is, these victims of Mr. Veach would have no more protection under policies of title insurance than they have under the certificates of title, inasmuch as the title insurance policies do not insure against forged title papers. I have before me now a policy of title insurance, lately issued by a title insurance company of this city, which contains the following clause: "Nor does this company insure against any of the following: Instruments, trusts, defects, liens and encumbrances not shown by any public record of the city of Los Angeles or of the county of Los Angeles, State of California." The forgery of a deed or other paper is a "defect" of title, which could not be ascertained from the record of the instrument. The record is simply a complete copy of the instrument, every word (including the signatures) being in the handwriting of the copyist. So that, if the document is forged, that is a "defect not shown by any public record," and therefore not insured against. It will also be observed that, by the clause above quoted, the policy of title insurance does not insure against any defect not shown by the records, and clike the certificate of title, is "based only on the record," and deals with the record title only.

oe Hyder Found Dead in a Burning Building at Congress — A Yuma Saloon Entered by a Masked Man—La Jolla Fire.

(BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.) SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—(Spec Dispatch.) Porter Ashe, the famous horseman, who is known to Los Angeles by his escapade in kidnaping his child from Mrs. Crocker's handsome hous on the hill, will be a drawing card i the breach-of-promise suit of Lillian Ashley against "Lucky" Baldwin torney Highton, the defendant's coun sel, and he will be asked to rehearse the little farce comedy in which he appears as a benevolent and kindly gentleman who might be prevailed upon to offer a father's care to an unprotected child. Lillian Ashley will ap-pear in the cast as an uncomforted or-phan who wanted to become Ashe's adopted daughter.

This little adventure was enacted in real life some time ago, and when the knowledge reached the ears of Fald-win's attorneys last week they deter-mined to make Ashe a witness. His ac-quaintanceship with Miss Ashley is said to have sparkled with unique and highly-interesting situations, and if Ashe tells all he knows of this latest pment in the private life of the young woman of many intrigues, it will prove an interesting and highly-edi-fying feature of the big damage suit.

Porter Ashe is not a willing witness and he has thus far refused to divulge any information concerning his rela-tions with Miss Ashley to Baldwin's attorneys. Ashe had been telling some friends how Miss Ashley tried to win him for her adopted father, and in this way the story traveled farther than he had anticipated.

Ashe's acquaintanceship and rela-tions with Miss Ashley are of a pe-culiar nature. He never met nor talked with the young woman who is seeking a $75,000 verdict, but Miss Ashley picked a $10,000 verdict, but Miss Ashley ploked him out as an available and proper sort of personage for her adopted father. She wrote him a twenty-eight page let-ter couched in duicet language. Her description of the lonely existence she was pursuing, of her orphaned condi-tion, and how she longed, with a four-ply longing, for the tender sympathy and warm affection of a father was calculated to cause the heart of a symcalculated to cause the heart of a sym-pathizing person to go out to this orphan child.

Strange as it may seem the recipient of the confidential epistle did not ac-cept the kindly offer in the same spirit in which it was given. On the contrary Ashe considered the matter a hug-joke, and he could not resist the tempta tion to tell it to his friends.

to rise and raily in defense of Catholic interests which they consider have been assailed by the A.P.A. Thus one proscriptive propaganda breeds another.

A BIT OF STRATEGY.

A BIT OF STRATEGY.

By way of steering the ship clear of rocks and doing a neat, but not gaudy job of navigating, the National Committee has decided that the chaplain of the convention shall be neither Catholic nor A.P.A. They have chosen a Jew for the job. I call that "Strategy, me boy."

The Kansas corn train is here, and attracts crowds of Democrats who thought the train was loaded with corn whisky. The hordes of Allison men who were heralded by band for St. Louis do not materialize. Many orders for special trains to fetch Allison boomers to the convention have been revoked within the past thirty-six hours. The fact bears its own significance. Allison is not in the race.

The crowds continue to pour into the city, but there is hotel room for all. The fact is, St. Louis is a capacious city and a broad-gauge one.

SOUTHERN SCRAPPERS. The "Ialy Whites" of Texas and the "Black and Tan" delegations of some other Southern States are proving a source of infinite trouble to the Nasource of infinite trouble to the National Committee, and will cause agony of spirit to the Committee on Credentials and possibly to the convention itself. Some of these contests are more brain-racking and mind-shattering than the fifteen puzzle. The Southern Republicans, however, seem to require these quadrennial conflicts in their business, and until order shall have been brought out of chaos in the South by some unforeseen and as yet undiscovered political reform in that quarter of the country, I supposs the national conventions of the party will have to continue to wrestle with the insatiate "scrappers" who regularly come up every year "to fight it out" right in view of the people of the entire country.

Meantime the plan to cut down the representation in the convention of States which never cast a Republican electoral vote meets with increasing favor among the thoughtful men of the party. It certainly is according to the dictates of plain justice that those Republican States which have to perform the work of electing the President, should have the largest hand in nominating him and making the platform upon which he is to stand.

NEEDS NO "BUSH." PLAIN JUSTICE.

NEEDS NO "BUSH." The criticism has been made by Mr. Depew that there is a lack of enthusiasm in St. Louis on the eve of the nomination of a President. The explanation is obvious. The opposition candidates have not enough following to raise a very big shout, while the nomination a very big shout, while the nomination of McKinley is so generally conceded on all hands, that the belief has settled down into a certainty. It is quietly taken as a matter of course, and this supreme confidence has supplanted shouting. The delegates and people are merely waiting for the inevitable to be formally declared and duly recorded. Selah. HARRISON GRAT OTIS.

According to the Riverside Press, there will be an increase in membership in the Orange Growers' Exchange this year, or the exchange system will be abandoned. If the Press is correct this is surely a critical year with the exchange, and if that is to be the end of all the efforts toward cooperation it is hard to foresee what will be forth-coming but chaos. Yet, it is not im-possible that those who decline to af-fillate with the exchange would be willing to join a combination attempt-ing far less.

There is a great deal of activity in the Los Angeles oil field at present, more drilling rigs being in operation than at any time during the past six months. A great many of the older wells are decliming in product and the present activity has become necessary in order to meet the demands of consumers. The present daily consumption of oil in Southern California is much larger than even sixty days ago. Aside from cheapness, crude oil possesses many advantages over coal for sesses many advantages over coal for fuel generating steam.

The public of Los Angeles is probably familiar with the words "hitching or-dinance." For many moons the City Council of Incompetents has shuffled the above article from pillar to post, from above article from pillar to post, from committee to Council and Council to committee, until the bare mention of the thing now is sufficient to evoke an attack of "that tired feeling." Today the Council is expected to receive from the City Attorney a draft of such an ordinance, which he was directed some time ago to draw up. There is a possibility that the attorney will pronounce the Council's ideas as illegal when incorporated in an ordinance. IN THE OIL FIELD.

THE BURNED DISTRICT IS BEING RAPIDLY REBUILT.

fuch Activity in Drilling Through out the Field-Wells Are Declin-

The Los Angeles oil field is rapidly returning to its old-time activity. A large number of new wells are being drilled and many others are contemplated in the near future. More oil is needed to meet the local demands of an expanding market. Not less than 2500 barrels are consumed daily in Southern California and this lamount is in excess of the present production by nearly 10 per cent.

It is not believed that the opening california and this amount is in excess of the present production by nearly 10 per cent.

It is not believed that the opening of a large number of new wells will cause any reduction in price. At the end of the first four months of production a decline of about 25 per cent. is noted; after this period a gradual decline down to 80 per cent, has been the experience of most oil producers during the first year, and from now on the profits may be termed "precarious," the expenses of deepening and frequent "pulling" frequently placing the balance on the wrong side of the ledger. Then, again, the wells are as dissimilar as individuals, occupying practically the same site; one well may produce well and need little attention for months, while its neighbors are being "pulled" every few days and never become profitably productive.

An important reduction from the figures previously published is officially announced from the scene of the late configgration in the oil district. The gauger's report places the quantity burned and otherwise destroyed during the fire at a little less than 2000 barrels. The members of the Oil Exchange and other prominent producers strongly favor the enactment and enforcement of strict regulations for the protection of the district against fire and waste oil or "slump." The Oil Exchange would gladly cooperate with the City Council in inaugurating reform measures for protecting the district against fire, and the city against filth.

The choicest residence portion of the city is again partly inundated by an overflow of oil and waste water and as a consequence deep indignation is expressed by the afflicted of Figueroa and Washington streets. And who is to blame?

There is evidence of capable ignorance or neglect, or both. During the recent fire large quantities of oil ran down Temple street. An apparently reliable report says it flowed into the sewer manhole at Beaudry avenue and Second street. Again, it is believed that oil is seeping into the Pearl street arroyo from both the oil lake at Court and superintended would result in an abatement of the nuisance.

But there appears to be evidence of official incapacity in handling the dielmma in the fashionable portions of the city. A boy with an eye to business could have abated the nuisance in a few minutes and garnered an enviable sum of money by digging a pit for the oil to flow into and hiring teams to haul it away as rapidly as it accumilted. Oil at $1.15 per barrel on the street is worth rescuing from the gutter.

A remedy can easily be devised and at smal expense that will solve the problem for all time and make another such occurrence impossible.

Machinery is being put in at the Cole well, on Belmont avenue, and the pump will be operated by the well's standard rig, engine and boiler. The "pumping jack" has been discarded as unsatisfactory and poorly adapted to the drill hole's requirements.

The American Crude Oil Company has erected a standard rig near its pumping plant, near Upper West State pumping plant, near Upper West State street and Hobart streets. Drilling operated the standard right of the street and Hobart streets.

and drilling operations will begin this week.

The Richard Green Crude Oil Company is having a new well drilled on the north side of First street, west of Belmont avenue. Drilling operations were begun Saturday, afternoon. This company will also drill a new well across the street, in the rear of the old store building. A derrick will be erected at this site during the present week.

Bayer & Last are having a standard rig erected at the east end of the open field lying along the eastern boundary of the Second-street Park grounds; also known as Lakeshore Park.

There are several acres in this field, and it is not improbable that many wells may be drilled upon it in the near future. Bayer & Bens are having one of theirs near by deepened to second sand. The parties mamed as above are also known as the Star Oil Company.

The Eureka Oil Company is deepening one of its wells at Kern and West State streets.

A drilling rig is at work in ah Acme well, at the southeast corner of West State and Kern streets.

A depth of 900 feet has been reached in the Dohneny & Connon well, at the northwest corner of Court and Metcalf streets, in a corner of the oil lake at that point. The casing is being perforated.

EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Fire broke out in the basement of Frank Simpson's house at No. 1032 Ingraham street a little before 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Simpson was awakened by a neighbor who had seen smoke coming from under the house. He turned a stream of water on the fire from a garden hose and an alarm was turned in from box No. 148. When the department arrived, Chemical No. 2 soon quenched the flames.

The fire originated in a pile of shavings and the damage is about $100, fully covered by insurance.

The Throop reception at Hotel Green Friday night, tendered by the institute to the graduates, was a pleasing function, and was attended largely by the graduates and their friends. The Throop orchestra of twelve pieces furnished the music, and light refreshments of ice-cream, fruit, punch and cake were served in the small diningroom of the hotel. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing. Prof. Keys is still in the northern part of the state, but a number of the members of the faculty and board of trustees were present. Harry Gaylord, Ed Barker, Charles Simpson, Jennie Nelmes and Jennie Lattimer formed the Reception Committee. The graduates are sixteen in number, two from the collegiate, and seven each from the each, were seen to blink their dying eyes sympathetically, and a big yellow-estive in number, two from the collegiate, and seven each from the academy and the sloyd department. Clark was arrested, but released on his own recognizance, and will appear for trial before Recorder Rossiter on Monday. The trouble arose over an altercation regarding Calvin's alleged carelessness in upsetting a small boy with his bicycle, the colored man taking Calvin to take therefor. Calvin responded in language which Clark considered insulting, and he thereupon proceeded to "do up" Mr. Calvin without further ceremony.

AVALON (Catalina Island,) June 14. AVALON (Catalina Island,) June 14.—
(Special to The Times by homing-pigeon Rex, of the Catalina carrier-pigeon service.) The roller skating rink

The mammoth tent was brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns strung on wires which formed a network overhead, and the Catalina Marine Band occupied a position in the center of the big tent, while the admiring public sat in rows round the boring public sat in rows round the borderland. The summer girl was heard to remark that it was jolly and remind-ed her of a circus, if only the boy with the pink lemonade would come round. Everybody who wanted them had a pair of skates for the evening free, and both experts and beginners mingled in a grand parade march on rollers, cheerfully scrambling about trying to keep up with their feet. William Burke, the champion bicycler, distinguished himself by the perfect ease and grace with which he rolled over the mammoth space of floor and easily distanced all space of floor and easily distanced all competitors. After everyone had skated as long as they liked an adjournment was had to the pavilion adjoining, and the band played some of its best music, which was improved by a large crowd of dancers.

The Catalina carrier-pigeons liberated from the Falcon yesterday afternoon just after she had cleared San Pedro Harbor flew across the channel in 23 minutes, bearing the message that 80 passengers were on board, and when the steamer touched the wharf the people swarmed off, and literally tumbled over each other in their wild haste to inscribe their autographs on the hotel register. Clumsy, the big dog, barked ecstatically as he seized the steamer's rope, the newsboys armed with the daily papers yelled like mad; the string of burros lined up near the wharf brayed with delight; and when Hancock Banning came down the gangplank bearing rod and reel and a full equip-

[CHURCH RECORD.] CHILDREN'S DAY.

Appropriate Exercises by the Sunday-schools.

Bishop Johnson Yesterday Held Two Confirmation Services.

The Easiest Religion in the World. Character of Jesus the Proof of His Claims—Some General Religious Notes.

Children's day was appropriately celebrated at Simpson Tabernacie yesterday morning. Among the most interesting feature of the service was the graduation of a class of twenty-five children from the primary to the intermediate department of the Sunday school. Each member of the Sunday school. Each member of the large class was presented with a handsome Bible by the Ladies' Social Circle of the Church. The recitations and songs throughout were well rendered, reflecting credit on both teachers and pupils. The graduating class appeared on the rostrum, the girls dressed in white, with sashes of blue, the class color. Their recitations, including the beatitudes, the ten commandments and questions asked by the superintendent of the primary department, were well rendered and promptly answered. Before the presentation of the Bibles, Mrs. Parmelee gave a little history of the class. Dr. McLean spoke in glowing terms of the attainments of the class, and George I. Cochreen, superintendent of the Sunday-school, presented the Bibles with appropriate remarks.

FIRST FRESBYTERIAN.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN. The regular morning service was given up to the observance of children's

The regular morning service was given up to the observance of children's day and appropriate exercises were conducted under the auspices of the Bible school. The church was very prettily decorated with a variety of flowers, among which the Easter Illy was most prominent. On the platform nestling among the flowers were a large number of little boys and girls, members of the primary department of the Bible school, and gathered about them in the front pews were the remainder of the children. In the choir loft, the older children supplemented the regular choir with their sweet young voices. The exercises were opened by the church choir, followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. Eurt Estes Howard, and a few preliminary remarks from Dr. Moody, superintendent of the school, touching on the growth of work, the rapid increase in membership, which now numbers 175, about sixty of which are in the primary department. At the close of Dr. Moody's remarks, two little tots were baptized by the pastor. On the platform behind the superintendent, a large frame was suspended, upon which the different emblems of the classes participating were placed; of these there were six in number clustered around the central inscription, "Christ." The shepherd's staff, the anchor of hope, the star of light, Christ our Master and Savior, were illustrated by the different classes, interspersed with songs appropriate to the occasion, by the entire school, led by D. H. Morrison, and accompanied by the Bible school orchestra. The presentation of diplomas to the class graduating from the primary department, consisting of nine little girls, and the remarks of the pastor, formed an impressive and beautiful ceremony. A short talk, designed for the older folks, by Mr. Howard, and the singing of the congregation and school, closed the exercises. The children, after the benediction, marched down the aisles out of the church, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

CONFIRMATION SERVICES.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES. The Rt. Rev. J. H. Johnson, bishop of Los Angeles, held two confirmation proved a most enjoyable addition to the services. Miss Selby sang the of-fertory solo.

A memorial altar reading desk, in memory of the Rev. Dr. Haskins, the first rector of the church, was dedi-cated by the bishop. The desk is of brass and very handsome. UNITY.

A sermon on "The Easiest Religion in the World" was preached by the pastor, J. S. Thomson, from the text "Wide is the gate and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there be that go in thereat."

Matthew vii. 13.

When a good man is murdered by a bad man, the murderer's case attracts clergymen that prepare him to enter heaven from the scaffold After he has consented to accept certain articles of belief, they declare that he is qualified to live among the blessed forever. His sins are all pardoned. After his execution he suffers no more for his crime. The good man whom he murdered goes to hell to suffer eternal torments with the damned, because he had not accepted the said articles of belief and because he was not favored with the attentions of clerical pardoners. His virtues count for nothing. Roman Catholicism would send the murderer to purgatory, but Frotestantism sends him directly to heaven. According to this theory of religion, Christ came into the world to whitewash criminals; to teach them how to take advantage of the theological bankruptcy act; to cheat the devil out of his just dues, and to encourage criminals to expect a free pardon at the end of a life of blackest crimes. Christ is to pay all the debt, to transform a sinner into a saint and angel in a few seconds; to make a man that deserves hell fit for heaven. It is impossible to imagine an easier religion than this. A man need not trouble himself to live a virtuous life, for logically a virtuous life is useless, according to orthodoxy. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Orthodoxy does mock God, for it assures a criminal that he shall not reap the harvest of his crimes. Christ came preaching the hardest and sublimest virtues. He illustrated the hardest and sublimest virtues the illustrated the hardest and sublimest virtues. He illustrated the hardest and sublimest virtues does not conserved the contradict Him in His own name.

PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.

Superintendent C. S. Mason and Charles A. Long spoke at the Mission

Superintendent C. S. Mason and Charles A. Long spoke at the Mission on "The Salvation Men Need." Jesus on "The Salvation Men Need. Jesus is a Savior who saves from sin, not in sin. He's just the same today, yesterday and forever. Mr. Long gave something of his own experience, illustrating the transforming power of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

FIRST UNITED PRESETTERIAN.

the gospel of Jesus Christ.

At the First United Presbyterian Church last evening the pastor, Rev. Will W. Logan, concluded a series of four lectures on "Foundation Facts of Christian Belief." These lectures have been delivered on successive Sabbath evenings. The first lecture dealt with the question "Can we believe the Bible?" The second was devoted to a consideration of miracles. The third was on the recent excavations in Assyria and Egypt, in their relation to Old Testament records. The closing lecture had as its theme, "The Character of Jesus; the Proof of His Claims."

After dealing with the various theories that have been invented to account for the life of Jesus, Mr. Logan said, in part:

The evangelist presents us with a portrait of a man who shows an extreme sensitiveness to sin, but who never acknowledges himself a sinner. Four distinct pictures are given, yet we know as we rise from reading them that they all picture the same person. To suppose that they were a fabrication is to suppose a greater miracle than their inspiration. These men were provincial, but Jesus is the universal man. He suits every age and every nationality. His claim to be "The Son provincial, but Jesus is the universal man. He suits every age and every nationality. His claim to be "The Son of Man" is scarcely less in its assertiveness than his claim to be the "Son of God." Admit the fact of the credibility of the gospel narative, and other questions settle themselves. Only then do we find the answer to the question that troubles men of every nation and every station, "How can man be right with God?" Only then do we account for the wonderful power of the unseen Jesus. Only then do we rationally account for the age in which he lived, giving to us the parable of the Good Samaritan and the Sermon on the Mount.

Y. M. C. A. At the 3 o'clock meeting, after several numbers by the orchestra, Master Albert Long sang a solo and Charles K. Long gave an address, based on Luke xix, 10, "For the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The great heart of Christ yearns after us. We feel we are lost, yet we have been putting Christ off. We have been putting that the limit was resulted. Los Angelea, held two confirmation services yesterday, one in the morning at the Church of of the Epiphany and the other in the evening at the Church of the Ascension, at Boyle Helghts.

At the former church five candidates were presented by the rector, the Rev. A. G. H. Trew, D.D., and one adult was baptized before the confirmation. The bishop gave an impressive address on the subject of "Confirmation and Christian Duty."

At the Church of the Ascension there were eleven candidates presented by the rector, Rev. D. F. Mackenzie, and one from Whittier by the Rev. Henderson Judd. The church was pretily decorated, tall spikes of snowy yucca being artistically arranged about the chancel, and ascension lilles about the altar. The vested choir of twenty-six voices was heard for the first time, and proved a most enjoyable addition to the services. Miss Selby snag the of.

At the morning service yesterday, children's day was celebrated. The attendance was large and the interest unabated to the close. The service was rendered by the Sunday-school in the interest of the Tressler Orphans' Home. The offerings were liberal. In the evening. Rev. J. W. Ball preached from the text, St. Luke xiv. 24: "For I say unto you that none of those men that were bidden shall taste of my supper." He said in substance,

"It may perhaps seem strange to some that these should be the words of infinite love; that God, who delights not in the death of the sinner, should yet exclude these from the blessings in store for the redeemed. Yet we should remember that God is just as well as merciful. And while the feast of love was prepared for the Jew first, yet the invitation has also come to the Gentile. 'Come for all things are now ready.' That invitation is held forth to you today. What is your attitude toward it?' Continuing the speaker dwelt, first, upon the sincerity of the invitation; upon the sincerity of the invitation; upon the manner in which it was and is received, and upon the results of rejecting it.

Condemned by sin, man is confronted by the wages of sin, which is death. We endeavor to resist death. We est, we drink but our best efforts avail for only a few years. They are in vain. We are but one vast funeral procession marching to the grave. And what of the soul's death? Is there no remedy? Christ is the feast of the soul, the bread of life and the water of life. He it is who satisfies our every want, and only he can. The speaker then dwelt upon the mistaken self-interest which still leads men to reject the feast prepared for them in Christ. Business cares and pleasure cause the ruin of thousands of precious souls, but chiefly pleasure. Reference was made to the desire for pleasure which, innocent in itself, leads to the neglect of the highest welfare of the soul. When the theater, the card party or the beach lead to the neglect of religious duties and the disregard of the Lord's day, it is high time to give them up, for they are injuring the welfare of the immortal soul. They should be renounced, lest that invitation, at one time accepted, be withdrawn and given unto others who will accept it truly.

Concluding, Mr. Ball pointed the results of rejecting that invitation. The supper will not lack guests if those who are now invited reject the invitation to come. That invitation will go to others and is even now passing be

The new Christian Church at Santa Rosa was formally opened to the public, June 5, by an entertainment given for the benefit of the new church. The church cost about $10,000, and is one of the handsomest edifices in that part of the State. Dedication services were held the 7th inst.

Rev. Hiram Wallace and wife, who have for several years made their home in Headsburg, have gone to Nova Scotia, where they formerly lived. It is their intention to remain in that country, the reverend gentleman having accepted the pastorate of the Christian Church in one of the principal towns in Nova Scotia.

The trustees and offichals of the Congregational Church of Redwood City have decided to extend å call to Rev. Frederick Mooar of Niles to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. L. D. Rathbone. Mr. Rathbone has been called to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Santa Rosa, after a service of nine years at Redwood City. Mr. Mooar is a graduate of the Pacific Theological Seminary.

Evangelistic work at the County Jail at San Francisco is being carried on every Sunday by the Endeavorers of Second Advent Mission. They first hold a brief service of song and prayer and Bible-reading, and then distribute to the inmates gifts of good reading matter, which is always eagerly called for. Bishop Hargrove will be accompanied by his wife to his Episcopal visitation to the West. Mrs. Hargrove will come in the interest of her peculiar work. They will start about June 20, after Vanderbilt's commencement is over.

One of the most important missions in which the Presbyterians of San Francisco and Oakland have embarked is the establishment and maintenance of a French church. Although not yet self-supporting, its pastor, Rev. E. J. Dupuy, is confident that it soon will be in a position to dispense with the aid now furnished by the two presbyteries.

one of the most tamous mines of Arizona has been the great Bonanza property at Harqua Hala. 100 miles northwest of Phoenix. From it for several years came great bars of bullion, making a monthly production often exceeding $100,000. A syndicate of miners soid the property to Hubbard & Bowers for $100,000. They worked it for a short time when the ore body, which in no wise appeared in ledge form, disappeared and the mine was thought to be worked out. Almost by accident another gigantic ore body was discovered at the critical time and again the bullion flow began. Again was the mine sold, on the strength of its wonderful gold product, this time to an English syndicate, for a price stated at $2,000,000, though probably less than two-thirds that sum.

The new company put in more elaborate machinery, but barely had it got into good working order than there came rumors that the old owners had sold the mine because it was failing and had left only enough standing ore in the excavations to delude the purchasers into the belief that the supply was exhaustless. The ore supply ceased, the mill shut down and once again was it believed that the Bonanza had "petered."

For the past year the mill has been running only on tailings, treated by running only on tailings, treated by the cyanide process, and for the past six months the mine has been leased to a number of old miners, headed by J. H. Murphy. The old workings had indeed been stripped of ore, but on the new incline a streak of iron oxide ora, had been passed with little notice. This streak was remembered by the lessees and upon it they sunk at & venture. At a depth from the surface of 200 feet and but a short distance from the incline the streak extended into an ore body, strong and continuous, averaging four feet in width and running in gold, free milling, $50.40 the ton. The mill is already at work on the ore and the lessees are hiring all the miners who apply. At the rate of nearly $100 a cubic yard, the problem of profit can readily be solved by any one.

Adjoining claims are also developing well, and the prospect is that soon the camp of Harqua Hala will more than regain all its old-time prosperity and population.

The work of adding new machinery and buildings to the already large smelting plant of the United Verde Copper Company at Jerome still goes on. Immense reverberatory furnaces and converters are being put in place, and a big iron building extending over a great portion of the slag dump is being erected. New engines will also be added to the already bewildering-looking engine-room, and two 40,000-pound bollers will be added to the boller-room. When the machinery is in place the new building will be extended over all the old ones, placing the entire plant under one roof. The old buildings will be torn away as the new one is erected without interfering with the operation of the plant. The smokestacks from all the furnaces will be added to the top of the mountain south of the works.

The Desert Mining Company lately sunk a well in Culler Valley, Yuma county, between Harrisburg and Mesquite wells, and at a depth of sixtyseven feet got an excellent supply of water. "I will go up to my room and get the rest." and with that left the store with the silver and the $10 bill. He failed to return and investigation shows that he immediately left town. Constable Singletary received information yesterday that Brown was in this city and located him in the Brunswick billiard hall on Main street last night.

Singletary procured the assistance of Officer Miles Long and went to the place to arrest Brown. Brown saw the omeers coming and bolted out the back door, slamming it after him. Sin-gletary, who was close behind him, ran into the door and injured his nose. He quickly opened the door and with Long started after Brown and he was finally captured and taken to police headquarters.

Col. Samuel Stoutener, who would eat up tobacco like a cow eats hay tried this wonderful remedy, and even Samuel, after all his years of slavery, lost the desire.

J. C. Cobier, Lessing Evans, Frank Dell, George B. May, C. O. All of the above gentiemen are so well pleased with the results that we do not hesitate to join them in recommending it to suffering humanity, as we have thoroughly investigated and are satisfied that No-To-Bac does the work well and is a boon to mankind.

$t Virtually Confirms All That Has Been Said in This Correspond-ence Regarding Exchange Dis-affection and Hints at the Discolution of the Exchange.

RIVERSIDE, June 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Press of Saturday evening published a column editorial unintentionally confirmatory of the interviews which have been published in this correspondence regarding the condition of the exchange. As the editor of the Press has been a boomer of the exchange from its inception up to this year and as he is now a member of the committee of kickers and is generally reputed to be on the point of severing his connection with the exchange, he speaks as an authority.

severing his connection with the exchange, he speaks as an authority.

Speaking of those outside of the exchange, the article says: "The outlook now is that there will be fewer or all of this class another year." Of course the word means that this is a critical year, and unless there is a great increase in membership of the exchange it will be abandoned.

The Press accuses the correspondent of The Times of saying that the managers of the exchange have made mistakes. Of course the correspondent has made no charges, but has simply referred to the very general complaints made and has sought in vain to get a statement from exchange leaders inanswer to them.

When the editor of the Press says, "It can be shown that the great majority of those who sold outside have not done as well as the members who has good fruit inside." he touches the most important point of this attempted investigation, but unfortunately he stops without any attempt to make the showing which would redeem the exchange from the many charges made by its members.

In acknowleding that the member-ship of the excannge in this valley showing which would remake the showing which as a statement that there is no serius disaffection in Riverside.

Notwithstanding the spirt of the edit or in Riverside.

Notwithstanding the spirt of the day and which has been a stried to gat the world the information which the writer hands inmog me most valuable recent contributions touching the question of marketing oranges. On account of its value, the editorial is given in full:

"The one-resident correspondent of the Conservation which is well calculated to deceive. Important of the cange situation here which is well calculated to deceive. Interspersed with many assertions that are true are implications that are calculated to give a very erroneous idea of the facis. He applied to the methods of the exchange, and was very properly refused. What would be thought of Mr. Earl or any of the other private shipping concerns if they should supply their competitors with full knowledge of all their private affairs. They would be the laughing stock of the trades, and was very properly refused. The should supply their competitors with full knowledge of all their private affairs. say that the conditions which made this possible in a few class were due to the existence and attitude of the exchange. Yet it can be shown that the great majority of those who sold outside have not done as well as the members who had good fruit inside. A fact that shows that Riverside Exchange has done well, considering the calamity that affected the quality of so large a percentage of the crop, is that it has shipped about 800 of the 2000 carloads sent out by Riverside this year, and averaged well for the growers. This is just about the same proportion as the Central Exchange handled of the whole Southern California crop. Included in this was a considerable quantity of inferior brands, shipped as culls to San Francisco, and as standards, or second grade, to eastern points. And yet, after taking out all expenses except that of picking and packing, the grower gets an average price of $1.30 per box f. o. b. for all varieties.

"We are certain the average prices obtained by outside shippers in Riverside have not given their patrons anything like such a figure, although there are plenty of 'individual cases, where these did well. The very fact that the membership of the exchange last year was only 40 per cent. of the whole number of growers as against 90 per cent. In the previous year, made unnecessary the discovery by the intelligent. Times correspondent that there was some dissatisfaction with the exchanges here. But if he had faithfully investigated he would have discovered something more, which is that they who retuse to cooperate are often in theory the warmest advocates of maintaining the exchange its existence-furnishes them an opportunity to skirmish for a bargain on the outside, but the outlook now is that there will be fewer or all of this class another year. With the failure to make contracts, the whole crop will be on sale to go helter skelter to market to the flanger of every speculator who dans to invest in it, and to the loss of every grower forced to compete with his neighbor in the disposal of his who seek to correct errors of administration, but their criticism of methods is in friendliness to the institution and they do not desire their action to be utilized by its enemies, who seem to act as though the general public were entitled to all the details of the business. The members of the exchange in Riverside, while desirous that the local exchanges shall be left more power henceforth in the management of certain departments of their business, fully appreciate the liberal attitude of the sister exchanges during the past season, and hope that such arrangements are continued as shall hold the growers together in the defense of their interests. They are not inclined to believe that with the giving up of the exchange there would be much hope of bona fide do.b. sales to any great extent, and that nothing would remain for the great bulk of the crop, but the old consignment method, for which the private fruit concerns, of course, have a very natural preference. The outsiders recognize that they can safely take some risks for a year or two, but these senerally want their neighbors to hold together at least the nucleus of an organization.

"One thing is definitely accepted which will govern future action, and together at least the nucleus of an organization.

"One thing is definitely accepted which will govern future action, and that is that the cost of putting on the market is far cheaper under association management than by any other. It remains to be seen if the work at the other end cannot be made as nearly faultless, even though it may never prove satisfactory to those who would like to do it themselves."

FROM LOMPOC.

The statement made in The Times more than a week ago, to the effect that the Southern Pacific Coast route had come to a standstill at the mouth of the Santa Ynes River and would build no further for an indefinite period, is now verfled by the following from the Lompoc Record:

"Just when we will get this branch is now enveloped in great uncertainty. All that is given that seems probable is that it will require from two to three years to complete the road to Eliwood."

The railroad company, in order to facilitate travel to the depot on the mesa, will be compelled to construct at once a road through the Huyck lands, as to go around by the Ocean road will prove bad and inconvenient, besides being much longer.

The terra cotta lady-bug that cleaned up the woolly aphis last August is making its appearance again. The work of the bugs will be watched with great interest by orchardists this season. The aphis is out in full force now, and nothing but this bug will clean up the trees infected.

The franchise for a tepephone system. The franchise under which the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Company has been operating has nearly expired and a new franchise has been advertised at the request of that company. The form of ordinance sin common with such ordinances in other towns. Under its terms, besides other requirements, it is provided that "such wires or conductors shall be stretched upon poles or other fixtures above ground." Should the city authorities ever want to require underground conduits it would seem this provision might lead to unpleasant complications. The city reserves the right to perform certain public works without being prevented by the franchise and the city is to have the privilege of using the poles placed by the grantee for wires for fire-alarm and police telegraph service. The city is to be furnished the free use of one long-distance telephone. The franchise is to cover a period of twenty-five years.

Annual Entertainment of the Indian School.

the Bed—The Tempe Canal Fight Breaks Out Anew—Studying Moqui Customs.

PHOENIX, June 11 .- (Regular Corre spondence.) Could the bucks and squaws of the Pima Reservation have looked last night at their children, they would have been dazed. Civilized, up-to-date people beheld, and while they were hardly dazed, they marveled and admired. The occasion was the annual entertainment of the Indian school. There was the spectacle of Indian girls in bloomers and shirt waists doing the rhythmic, cornerless gyrations of the Delsarte, and doing it creditably; and, after it came long-legged, gawky Indian boys, in very short yellow bloom ers, shirt waists and stovepipe hats, and who went through a burlesque on the performance of their sisters. Had the performance been done by white children it would have been worth admiring. But when viewed with the knowledge that their ancestors of a hundred generations ago were just the same kind of poor, placid, useless Plma Injuns as their own fathers and mothers, the performance becomes re-ally wonderful. There was a band that ally wonderful. There was a band that discoursed, if not brilliantly, at least agreebaly. They sang songs, and carried their parts of alto, soprano, tenor and bass in true white fashion. One tenor voice was particularly good. An address was made by Cyrus Sun, a Maricopa boy, who has been in school but four years. After a quick, low bow he said:

address was made by Cyrus Sun, a Maricopa boy, who has been in school but four years. After a quick, low bow he said:

"Ladles and Gentlemen; In behalf of our school I give you greeting. We have prepared such exercises as we think will please and entertain you and at the same time be a fair illustration of what we can do.

"You must remember that all we know of civilization has been taught us since 1892; that is, the greater part of us. While a very few have attended school somewhat longer, more than half our number less than one year. We want to be a part of the great American people, live as they do. speak as they do and occupy such positions in the community as we deserve. The Southern Arizona Indian is peaceful, humble and docile, willing to work when he has a chance; but he must be protected from his degradation and immorality. I refer to that horrible practice so common among them, known as no sanctity of the marriage-relation. Until that is prohibited there is practically no chance for the Indian. The Indian should have the same law that the white man has be amenable to such law and punished the same. The only method now for Indian graduates by which to maintain and cling to that which to maintain and cling to that which they have learned is to remain among white people, which, after all, is the better way.

"I wish to thank you for your kind attention and hope you will be pleased with our exercises."

The entertainment included some drills and marching, by both boys and girls that showed almost perfection. The drilling by the girls was better than that of the boys. The whole performance denotes patience and hard work on the part of the instructors. Superintendent Hall promises that the entire programme will be repeated in Los Angeles the first week in August. The object is to create a friendly feeling for the race. Your correspondent would bespeak a kindly reception for them. They are plodding and deserving, and may yet make good citizens.

She then retired to sweet dreams, but this was not to be. After she had fallen asleep she was aroused by the odor of chloroform. Alarmed, she started up, when a man's hand seized her arm and a man's voice hissed "if you scream, I'll kill you." Undaunted she did scream, and furthermore, threw aside the intruder. The man was glad to make his escape, which he did, the chair crashing after him. When the danger was over the woman fainted. He is supposed to have entered while Mrs. Swift was getting the water.

A CANAL FIGHT RENEWED.

The fight between the Consolidated Canal Company and the Tempe Canal Company has been renewed. The case has been to the Supreme Court and back. It pertains to Dr. Chandler's power-house. Water has been diverted from the Tempe Canal to the Consolidated, that it may be carried through the power-house of the latter, generating 500 horse-power, after which the water is returned to the Tempe Canal. The fight has been long and stubborn. It has now reached proceedings where the condemnation of the land between the power-house and the Tempe Canal is located. When water was passed through the power-house, armed men in the employ of the Tempe Canal were on hand to prevent the turning of the water into that canal. The law is now besought to open a right-of-way clear through.

PRESCOTT. (Ariz.,) June 11.—(Regular Correspondence.) Researches into the lore of the superstitions and wonderful Moqui tribe of Indians will be much advanced by an expedition proposed by Dr. J. Miller, president of the Arizona Antiquarian Association. He has long been desirous of exploring some ruins on the reservation, but owing to restrictions by the authorities and the unwillingness of the Indians, has refrained. That he might make such explorations, a special appeal to the Department of the Interior was made, on the strong recommendation of Delegate Murphy. Permission has been granted to a party of six to make such explorations as they may desire on the part of the Antiquarian Association. It is conditioned that the party first report to Constant Williams, U.S.A., acting Indian agent of the Navajo agency, some time prior to their departure, so that the Indians may be advised of the nature of their proposed visit, and may not harass or interfere with their operations. The order also endoins all agents and employés of the Indian service to extend all such facilities and add in the prosecution of the work as may be compatible with their duties.

He says that in some respects the savages are happier and ahead of the civilized races. For instance, he says, in the matter of dress in this hot weather. Clothes, in such weather as the present, are almost unbearable. He says the adoption of the garb of Adam and Eve would be the wise thing to do with weather what it is. "Or," said he, "people might wear breech-clouts for so-called 'decency' sake, or even a single thin garment to keep off the sun. After all, it is a mere matter of getting used to it." The doctor is quiteright. Now the question is, who will accustom people to it?

The shooting of dogs on which the dog tax has not been paid, has again been started in Phoenix. The custom is barbarous and disgraceful. The shooting of a pet dog in its owner's own yard has been done, before the eyes of women. The shock and distress have been out of all proportion to the value of the dog to the city. No spot is safe from the deadly bullet and crack of the gun of the marksman who marches abroad in the city on his killing tours. latter held a light cane in his hand and with it he dealt Olivas a blow over the head.
Olivas, it is said, then struck at Gutierrez with a pocket knife, which he held in his hand when he approached. According to eye-witnesses, Olivas struck at Gutierrez six times, and wounded him in two places.
With blood streaming from his wounds, Gutierrez ran to his home at No. 660 Upper Main street, pursued by Olivas. The wounded man was pushed into the house by some friends and the door was slammed in Olivas's face. He threw the weapon away and walked to Aliso street in company with his six-year-old daughter.

Dr. Pavildes was called to attend the wounded man and he made an examinaation of the wounds. One thrust of Olivas's knife had inflicted a cut just above Gutierrez's heart to the depth of one inch, and another had made a wound in the left arm. The doctor says that had the knife gone a triffe deeper it would have caused instant death. The wound over the heart is a dangerous one, but it is thought it will not prove fatal.

The police were promptly notified and Serbeant Smith, Detective Benedict and Officers Sawyer and Long made a dilligent search for Olivas, but he had fied. Olivas was arrested at 12:30 o'clock this morning by Sertg. Smith and Officers Sawyer and Long.

Sawyer learned that Olivas was in his office at the corner of Marchessault and New High streets, and notified Sergt. Smith, who, in company with Long, broke down the door and arrested him.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

Closing Religious Exercises for Occidental College.

This is commencement week at Occidental College, the Presbyterian school which has been holding its sessions in the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church since its building, on the hills east of the city limits, burned down.

The first event of the week was the baccalaureate sermon, delivered yesterday morning at the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. L. F. Laverty of the Second Presbyterian Church. He preached an inspiring sermon before the graduating class, and a good-sized audience. The text chosen was Jude xxi: "Keep yourselves in the love of God." The speaker impressed upon his hearers the character of true religion. He declared it neither creed nor justice alone, based upon the great fundamentals of the Christian faith. The truth of the text is for all phases of life, to inspire and to cheer the discouraged. Mr. Laverty's address to the class was direct and helpful. IN THE EVENING.

Dr. J. K. Fowler delivered the address of the evening, choosing as his subject, "Temple Building," and as his text I Kings vi, 37. He gave a glowing description of the building of Solomon's Temple. He spoke of the years of preparation, for to insure true stability and permanence, the foundation must be strong. This rule applies in all fields of life. Things of value always cost much. Every great life is built on a thorough foundation of years of training. If the beginning is right, there is no limit to what the result may be.

The great need of today, said Dr. lowler, is that the world should have agn and women of principle. The world needs men and women of deterworld needs men and women of determination, for if the well-begun structure is not finished, it might almost as well never have been begun. Dr. Fowler urged the students to have a definite object in life and build a temple sacred to God.

Dr. Chichester also made an address and prayer was offered by President Condit, Prof. J. W. Parkhill and Prof. Guy W. Wadsworth. There was music by the choirs of Central Church and Immanuel Church.

INTO THE SEA.

LAUNCHING OF A RACING YACHT AT REDONDO.

The Defender Junior Takes Her First Sail-Lifted into the Water by a Derrick — The Sea Grows Choppy and the Guests Stay

Amid the blasts of steam whistles, the shouts of excited people, the roar of the waves and the fluttering of flags. Defender, Jr., the finest racing yacht ever built in Southern California, yesterday dipped her keel for the first time in the waters of the sea, and lay at rest, swaying on the bosom of the waves. The dainty craft was built here in Los Angeles by Los Angeles men, and she is doubtless destined to greatly stimulate the love of yacht racing in and he is doubties destined to great the state of the globe.

The manner of the globe.

The manner of the globe of the control and sne is doubtiess destined to greatly stimulate the love of yacht racing in this quarter of the globe.

When the Sunday pilgrims left the train at Redondo Beach yesterday the first question each one asked was, "Where's the yacht that's going to be launched?" Forthwith the sightseer's attention was directed to a curious looking affair mounted on the end of the south pier, high in air. A stream of people flowed down the beach and over the curving railroad trestle above the breakers to the broad pier in sublime disregard of the big danger signs warning trespassers off the trestle. Then they gathered around the yacht, and piled everybody who looked as if he had some connection with it with questions innumerable.

The little vessel was resting on blocks of wood, with huge ropes wound around her, which centered at a big block and tackle, fastened to the outstretched arm of a derrick. She was alive with men, each one hammering and scraping and tying knots and rummaging in lockers as if his life depended on it. On each side of the vessel some one had scrawled in chalf, "Keep Oaf!" but in spite of the warning men kept clambering up the shaky wooden ladder and barking their shins as they attempted to board the vessel, or letting themselves down over the edge and wildly waving their legs in the air in search of a foothold in such numbers and with such pressing offers of assistance and such vast quantities of advice as almost to drive to madness the people who were doing the work.

But no wonder everybody was excited and interested and overflowing with suggestions, for very little ship building has been done on the coast of Southern California, and such a thing as a fair-sized racing yacht of home manufacture is practically unknown.

Capt. C. H. Wedgewood, the builder of the boat, is an architect by profession. He has been an enthusiastic yachtsman for years. Last season he and Messrs. Charles Hall and Charles Chick had a speedy saliboat of Capt. Wedgewood's own make, which beat all other boats of her class at Catalina.

saying he wished they had come on board that they might be there to help him.

The plan was that the yacht should be towed to its buoy and anchored, and that the owners of the boat who had not gone on board, together with invited guests, should go to the other wharf and be taken out to the yacht in rowboats. The first part of the programme was carried out successfully, but not the latter. The wind had risen and the sea was covered with white-caps. Rowboats tossed in the most alarming way and even the yacht, not yet entirely ballasted, looked very insecure. One by one the people said they had an appointment or had to-catch a train or wanted to take a dip in the surf or were too tired to go, and at last the yacht started on its first sail with only those on board who had proved themselves mariners by sliding down the ropes.

The trial trip was a success. The pretty, white-winged creature glided over the waves, this way and that, careening with the wind, with all the effortless grace of a sea gull. She is swift and steady and strong and great things may be expected of her, for she is in the hands of an experienced yachtsman. The Defender, Jr., will stay at Redondo until about July 16, and then her owners, with a number of guests, will go to Catalina for a month, to break records and other yachtsmen's hearts.

The Defender, Jr., is of graceful shape. Her length over all is forty-one feet.

Her length over all is forty-one feet, her keel measures fourteen feet, her beam is, ten feet, her mast reaches a height of forty-five feet, her main boom is thirty-seven feet. and when in full sall she carries 200 square feet of canvas. Ment Down to the Sen.

Most of Los Angeles spent yesterday and the day before at the seaside. All the coast-bound trains were loaded, and the population of the beach resorts increased as though struck by a tidal wave of humanity. Those unfortunates who were obliged to remain inland stayed in the house and fanned themselves, and the effect was plainly shown in the decrease of stree-car travel. Even the cows have been affected, for milk that has not gone sour is at a premium, and buttermilk is a departed luxury until butter-making can commence again. This sort of thing is most unusual in Los Angeles, but the clerk of the weather seems determined this summer to make up in some way for the freedom of this favored spot from cyclones and other aerial triflings such as whisk over the Middle States.
